MYSTERY CASE AT MANSFIELD

Today

Mexico's Religious War.
Here's a Prophetess.
Few Harvard Children.
The Satanic Order.

By ARTHUR BRISBANE

(The opinions expressed in this column are strictly those of Mr. Brisbane and not necessarily in consonance with the policies of The Review-Tribune.)

Copyright, 1926, by the Star Co.

THE Catholic church does not intend to yield to the new constitution of Mexico without a struggle. A pastoral letter by Bishop Herrera Y. Pina, of Monterey, instructs Catholic priests and worshipers "to offer passive resistance to the government's effort to enforce the sections of the constitution relating to religion."

PRIESTS are ordered "not to fulfill the constitutional requirements, and to abandon their churches rather than obey other than ecclesiastical authority."

Worshipers are told "to organize a peaceful movement of opposition."

Mexico is in the throes of a real and serious religious war, one that may well cause anxiety.

IF YOU believe in modern prophecy study the skies at Easter. Johanna Leinhart, a Bern prophetess, says God will perform [illegible] fairs at Easter. Germany come out ahead of all nations and as a sign there will be sunshine in Germany from Palm Sunday to Good Friday, with fierce storms, rain, hail, snow in all other countries.

When the world recovers from this surprise Johanna will reveal all the secrets of life, death and the resurrection.

STATISTICS show that Harvard graduates when they marry have few children, many of them no children.

The number of childless Harvard marriages increases steadily and the number of homes where there are children diminishes steadily.

This doesnt' mean that education reduces fertility. It means that the prosperous class are provided with birth control information, forbidden to the poor.

THE authorities of Oakland are investigating "The Satanic Order of Lucifer," suspected of including human sacrifices in its ritual. Macario Timon, a leader in the order, was found with his throat cut. That's shocking; perhaps it is true.

But so many centuries back human sacrifice was part of every religion of any consequence. As recently as in Old Testament days Abraham took it quite for granted that he should be ordered to sacrifice his son. He would undoubtedly have cut the throat of his son, Isaac, and offered him as a burnt offering had not a substitute been miraculously provided.

Here has been progress.

TWO young ladies in Palm Beach, carrying bathing suits over their shoulders, walked along in wet kimonos, not fastened too securely. Arrested, they forfeited their bail and police say it is dreadful because these young ladies, who gave false names, were both socially prominent.

For a real democracy, this country pays considerable attention to "social prominence." It makes even nakedness worse.

IN WALL STREET more excitement yesterday, another slaughter of the lambs. Stocks that dropped most violently were those in which the innocent lambs had been gambling most violently.

The stocks that fell down are not

BANK CLERK GUILTY OF EMBEZZLEMENT

MIDLAND GIRL CONVICTED AT BEAVER AFTER WEEK'S TRIAL

Mrs. Mary D. Camwell, 25, Faces Prison Term.

DENIED CHARGES

Court Probably Will Pass Sentence Next Week.

Mrs. Mary D. Camwell, pretty 25-year-old bank clerk of the Midland Savings and Trust company, Midland, was found guilty on two indictments charging her with the embezzlement of $3,000 in school savings deposits by a jury in the Beaver county common pleas court, at Beaver, yesterday afternoon.

She will be sentenced on Saturday, April 3, unless granted a new trial. Penalty for conviction is a prison term of not less than one year.

Shows No Emotion.

The jury of seven women and five men, in whose hands the fate of the woman rested, deliberated about three hours before reaching a verdict.

Mrs. Camwell showed no emotion when the jury reported, keeping her eyes fixed on Clerk of Courts Jacob Marshall as the verdict was read. She turned and conversed with members of her family who sat near her after the jury's finding was announced.

The trial of Mrs. Camwell, who had been employed in the Midland bank for about a year, was one of the most sensational in the Beaver county common pleas court for several years. The trial started last Thursday, requiring approximately one week.

The defense rested Wednesday afternoon after character witnesses had been examined. Arguments of both the prosecution and the defense were made Wednesday afternoon after which court adjourned. Attorney D. A. Nelson, who, with ex-Judge R. F. Holt, was counsel for the defendant, asked that Mrs. Camwell be acquitted, declaring that the commonwealth had failed to substantiate its charges of embezzlement.

District Attorney F. G. Moorhead, who led the prosecution, based his argument on the findings of W. C. Perry, state banking examiner, who discovered the shortage in the school savings accounts and signed the affidavits which caused the clerk's arrest.

Forgery Count Not Pressed.

The charge of Judge William A. McConnell, who presided at the trial, delivered after court reopened Thursday morning, required approximately two hours. He reviewed the testimony and explained the law. Several boxes of bank records and exhibits

Ben L. Bennett was elected president, succeeding Blaine H. Cochran. James McGarry was named vice president; R. G. Thompson, treasurer, and Solicitor Frank H. Hoover, secretary.

Seventeen members from East Liverpool and Wellsville attended. Cochran, retiring president, presided.

Leetonia Branch Of Fish and Game Society Organized

Dr. William E. Ward, dentist, was named president.

Talks were given by Attorney Frank E. Grosshans, of East Liverpool, and L. Cook, district supervisor of game wardens.

IRVIN S. COBB IS TEETOTALLER

NEW YORK, March 26.—Irvin S. Cobb, writer and humorist, was on record today by his own testimony, as a 100 per cent teetotaller.

Cobb was called before the federal grand jury to testify concerning the famous "bathtub" party given at the theatre of Earl Carroll, Broadway producer. He told newspapermen afterwards that he did not see any "liquor" served at the party nor any signs of drunkenness. He said he himself had not taken a "drink" in four years.

NEW MUNICIPAL BUILDING NEED CITED AT MEET

[illegible]mittee is Named List Sites and Cost.

50 A[illegible] SE[illegible]ION

N.P.[illegible] Outlines Plan to Sell Unused Property.

That East Liverpool needs a new municipal building and that the question of a site and financing is a matter of secondary consideration, is opinion of approximately 50 citizens, representing civic, fraternal, service and social organizations, who attended a mass meeting in municipal court headquarters, Fourth and Market streets, last evening.

Little was accomplished to ascertain sentiment. A motion offered by Prosecuting Attorney Robert M. Brookes, authorizing the appointment of a committee from city council to list sites and their cost, was unanimously adopted.

"I believe that some good will come of this gathering," said N. P. Kerr, president of council, who sent out the call for the meeting. "Even if we don't get a new city hall, this meeting will have done some good. Council is willing to provide a city building if the people want it."

Prosecutor Brookes' Suggestion.

Kerr, at the opening of the session, said the city was "not progressive enough." He pointed out that the municipality owns thousands of dollars worth of idle property, which might be turned into cash and the money used for an improvement which is badly needed—a city hall.

"A new city hall would give the city more prestige," he declared. "The structure at the corner of third and Market street is a disgrace. A market house is out of the question for East Liverpool. The $40,000 in bonds issued for a market house a few years ago is eating itself up in interest.

Y. & O. Interurban Service Is Crippled By Landslide

No Cars Operate for Four Hours as Result of Slip Near Westfield.

Traffic over the Youngstown & Ohio River railroad, between East Liverpool and Salem, was crippled for more than four hours today by a landslide near Westfield, two miles north of here.

The slip, which completely covered the track was discovered by the crew of the first car which was due here at 6:20 o'clock this morning. The motorman saw the obstruction in time to avert a crash.

Through arrangements made with The Steubenville, East Liverpool & Beaver Valley Traction company, one of the double truck center-entrance city cars was operated from the Diamond to the scene of the slide at 7:20 and 8:20 o'clock, and passengers were transferred to Y. & O. cars on the other end.

Tracks were cleared by a Leetonia crew of laborers shortly before 10 o'clock, when regular service was restored.

"CANDY KID" BANDIT WILL UNSEAL HIS LIPS FOR WIFE'S FREEDOM

Richard R. Whittemore Promises Revelations That Will "Startle New York" if Police Free "Tiger Girl."

NEW YORK, Mar. 26.—The fate of Margaret Whittemore, "The Tiger Girl," hangs today upon the word of her bandit leader husband, Richard Reese Whittemore, who has promised the authorities he will unseal his lips for love of her.

She is now in jail, one of the nine members of the Whittemore robber and murder gang under arrest.

His wife's freedom is the price the "Candy Kid" puts upon revelations he said would "startle New York." His story, if told, is expected to lay bare the whole system of banditry by which the "night club gang" were able to steal nearly $1,000,000 in two years without a single hold-up going awry.

District Attorney Joab H. Banton said this morning he would free pretty, young Mrs. Whittemore if her husband "comes clean" with his story.

The authorities are convinced that if Whittemore talks they will be able to arrest the "higher-ups" who furnished the band with information about the "easy jobs" and then purchased the loot, often making part payments in advance.

Gang Worked Like Grid Team.

Several mysterious murders and disappearance of witnesses may also be cleared up.

Six murders already are laid to the Whittemore gang by the authorities.

Banton already has the confessions

OHIO CITIES RECALL HORROR OF 1913 FLOOD

Thirteen Years Ago Dayton and Zanesville Were Hit.

BRIDGES WRECKED

Millions of Dollars of Damage Was Wrought.

ZANESVILLE, March 26.—Thirteen years ago today every bridge across the Muskingum river between Zanesville and Marietta was washed out by the memorable flood of 1913 and every bridge between Zanesville and Newark on the Licking river was also destroyed. Zanesville, the "city of bridges," had but two bridges standing when the flood waters died down—the historic "Y" and Fifth street bridge.

Unlike the flood experiences of other Ohio cities, only two lives were lost here, notwithstanding two-thirds of the incorporated area of the city was under water from two to 20 feet deep. Zanesville suffered an enormous financial loss, estimates varying between $12,000,000 and $15,000,000.

Tamed and Chastened River.

DAYTON, O., March 26.—A tamed and chastened river flows through Dayton today on the thirteenth anniversary of the great flood. Guided by the works of man, watched day and night by careful workers, the great Miami river rises and falls without causing fear in the hearts of thousands of citizens whose homes line its banks.

The construction of the Miami conservancy district, costing thirty millions of dollars, is completed. The puffing engines and straining trucks have gone from the riverside and the dam sites, but still in every town and hamlet throughout the length of the Miami and Mad river valleys are men ready to dash at a moment's notice to avoid the catastrophe which 13 years ago struck the state.

WIFE RETAINS LAWYER AFTER DISAPPEARANCE OF HER SPOUSE

Prosecuting Attorney Admits Investigation is Under Way.

LETTER RECEIVED

Woman Withdrew $800 of Man's Savings From Bank.

MANSFIELD, March. 26.—Clark Baker, 40, proprietor of the North Star dance hall, five miles north of Mansfield, has been missing since the night of March 10, County Prosecutor George H. Blecker said today when he announced that he and Sheriff Sells are investigating the mysterious case.

Baker's wife reported her husband's disappearance on March 22, when she told the story to her mother-in-law at Shelby who in turn informed the police.

Find Typewriter in House.

According to information obtained by local authorities, Baker came home from his work as a carpenter on the night of March 10 and after eating a heavy supper complained of feeling ill. His wife says she tendered him but retired at 10:30 o'clock, leaving him sitting up. That was the last she saw of him. Two days later she received a letter, typewritten, even to the signature, purporting to be from the husband, mailed in Mansfield at 3 o'clock March 12. The letter, which is withheld by the authorities, is said to tell the wife he is leaving and she can have all his money and property.

Sheriff Sells Tuesday found a typewriter in a closet at the Baker home, covered with a rug. Investigation disclosed that the letter was written on that typewriter. The wife says she found the typewriter locked in a trunk after her husband's disappearence.

Description of Missing Man.

The authorities have learned that Baker had $800 on deposit in a local bank. The wife drew the money out two days after the husband disappeared.

The missing man, who is described as being of medium height, smooth faced and of dark complexion, has a mother and sister in Shelby, and brothers in Cleveland, Indianapolis and Detroit.

The wife, whose maiden name was Frances Crum, has retained a local attorney, L. H. Beam.

780 PUPILS WILL COMPETE IN GRANT DISTRICT, W. VA., SCHOOL SPELLING BEE

Seven hundred and eighty pupils of 10 schools in Grant street, West Virginia, today began intensive preparation for the championship spelling bee to be held in the Newell school building, probably on April 30, when two representatives to compete in a match at Wheeling will be chosen.

R. L. Hoke, principal of the Newell high school and district superintendent, announced there would be a five-week period of "brushing up" among pupils of the various grades. Two from each room will be selected to enter the district finals.

The school chieftain made the following suggestions to contestants:

1—Have a perfect mark on the words assigned in the daily spelling lesson.

2—Be able to spell each word listed in the Review-Tribune by the Spelling Bee editor. One should get daily a copy of the newspaper during the period of the bee. These lists of demons and tongue-twisters will be largely drawn from in the final contest.

3—Contestants will study on their "own hook" from spelling books and other sources.

In keeping with plans for the event, lists of words, from which tongue-twisters for the finals will be taken will be published by The Review-Tribune, which will award cash prizes to the two winners in the district.

Soviet Takes Limit From Inheritances; Fix Graduated Taxes

MOSCOW — Proposing to abolish the present 10,000-rouble limit on inheritances, the Council of Peoples Commissars has taken another important step toward recognizing the right to own private property and to pass it on to one's descendants.

This is the second step backward from the original communist position. Until last year, upon the death of a man, all his property was confiscated by the state. Then it was decreed that inheritances would be permitted up to 10,000 roubles. Now the Council of Peoples Commissars has outlined a bill removing the limit, and substituting a graduated tax.

An interesting feature of the proposed inheritance tax is the fact that it takes into account the possibility of accumulating as much as 1,000,000 roubles. The highest level of the tax scale provides that from inheritances of more than 500,000 roubles, the state shall take 238,000 roubles from the first 500,000, and 90 per cent of the remainder.

Sad People Hoping for Relief From Their Suffering

You meet folks once in a while to whom your heart goes out in pity caused by their appearance. Sallow cheeks sunk to the bone, dull lusterless eyes, dragging footsteps, all proclaim sufering. Such are the people who have neglected Nature's kindly warnings. They have felt bad for a while but kept on hoping until the grip of their ailments was so strong they could not shake it off. Nine times out of ten, too, these ailments started in a simple attack of indigestion accompanied by constipation. Failing to relieve the latter, the blood became contaminated with poisons absorbed from the bowels. Liver and kidneys were unable to filter it out, and thus was established a vicious circle that continued to grow worse until every part of the body was debilitated. That is what neglect does for people. That even the worst cases have been relieved by World's Tonic. Don't wait until you are helpless. Take this wonderful medicine on the appearance of the first symptoms and note how quickly the sallowness and tired feeling disappears, how kidneys and bowels begin to act, and how seen you are feeling better. World's Tonic is sold by Carnahan's, Brannan's at Wellsville, and all other good druggists. Be sure to get the genuine.

Louisiana Literacy

The state of Louisiana deserves praise and increased respect for its educational activities of recent years.

In 1900, the value of all its school property (for white children) was only $2,150,000, a sum no greater than has been spent on single high school buildings in many other parts of the country. At that time, too, 17.3 per cent of the white population was illiterate, and 61.1 per cent of the negroes.

In the quarter-century since then Louisiana has waked up. Illiteracy has dropped nearly half. In 1925 the state spent about 20 times as much on education as in 1900; the value of school property had risen from a little over two million to nearly 41 million dollars.

The school session has been increased from 120 to 170 days. Today 70 per cent of the teachers have college or normal training; 25 years ago only 30 per cent had such training. Per capita expenditure has risen in the same period from 85 cents to $11.03.

The percentage of illiteracy at any given time in a community naturally measures past negligence, while present educational activity will show its results best in the next decade or so. Louisiana has magnificent physical advantages for commerce and finance. Within the next 25 years it will have the fine leadership of educated men and women, backed by a literate population.

The Prince In The Movies

England and the British dominions are now being entertained by a movie of the Prince of Wales' recent tour of Africa and South America. It now comes out that, in addition to his duties as a sort of ambassador de luxe to the whole world and as traveling super-salesman for British manufactures, the heir to the throne has also had to serve his prospective subjects as movie star.

The picture was made under the supervision of the British admiralty, and is said to depict incidents in the tour of the Prince of Wales from the time the battleship Repulse left Portsmouth until the return six months later. The prince traveled 28,000 miles in that period. The outstanding events of the tour, such as the major official welcomes and demonstrations, and also a lot of the simpler pleasant incidents of the trip, were snapped by the movie camera man.

The immediate reason for making and showing this royal movie is to encourage "buying British" throughout the empire. But it is safe to say that the picture will be thoroughly enjoyed by loyal Britishers wherever it is shown. A good travel picture is always a success, and when its leading man is the popular Prince of Wales, large crowds of enthusiastic spectators are assured.

We'd even go so far as to say that the picture would probably be somewhat of a drawing card among the plain people of these democratic United States.

Dollar Corn

The farmer, whose idea of economic bliss used to be "dollar wheat," has recently hoped for dollar corn. Which is a not unreasonable hope. Gauged by expenses and general prices, perhaps corn ought to be worth that much.

The International Harvester company agreed with the farmer and backed its belief with action probably unprecedented in the history of any "trust." It took corn in payment for farm machinery at the rate of a dollar a bushel, in expectation that the grain, though low at the time, would rise to about that level. Its corn receipts in the last few months, on the basis, have been enormous.

Corn, however, has gone down instead of up, and unless the tide turns the Harvester company stands to lose a big sum of money.

This suggests that even a modern American "trust" is not omnipotent in the realm of economics. Many farmers, however, still believe that the government can make what prices it will for commodities. As a matter of fact, the good old, bad old law of economics seems to remain superior to all artificial agencies, and always has its way in the end.

Accidents And Drivers

The chief of police of San Antonio, Tex., thinks it takes two accidents to make a good automobile driver.

"When a man buys a car," explains the chief, "he is careful at first. Then he gets to dodging, and pretty soon somebody dodges the same way and there is an accident. He is careful again for a while, and then he gets reckless once more. He dodges again, and there is another crack-up. After that he settles down and drives sensibly right along."

That is probably the way it works in a good many cases. The psychology of it is sound enough. Most of us have sense enough to learn something from two serious experiences, and be permanently on guard thereafter against a repetition of the same sort of misfortune. But it's hard on the public to have everybody going through a smash-up training school like this, and sometimes it's pretty hard on the smasher himself, and on his family. A rational human being ought to be able to learn from one personal accident—or better yet, from those of other people.

A bee has to stick his—or rather her—nose into 8,360,000 clover blossom tubes to extract enough nectar for one pound of honey, and then human eaters of that honey have the nerve to say a bee isn't really busy.

NEW YORK DAYBYDAY

By O. O. McINTYRE

NEW YORK, March 26.—Thoughts while strolling: Morning along the Park Avenue Mall. Prim nurses and stiffy starched children. Beribboned lap dogs. Ex-noblemen door tenders. The tony apartment house courts with flower-lined arroyos, tiny foot bridges and splashing fountains.

Four rooms and bath at $20,000 a year. Buildings with only porte-cochere entrances. What a spot for book agents; Vanity and chicane. Yet somehow naive. Like the childish longing for new toys. A strolling photographer with the long hair and velveteen coat of Montmatre.

A tea room named for the pirate Jean Lafitte. Whatever became of him? The rumble of New York Central trains. Freshly barbered men in search of yesterday, O, to be romantic at fifty! Despite gout. Short pants. And golf bags. Silk hats and long beards. Jade baths.

Noiseless aloof motors gliding where oxen once stumbled and strained the yoke. An exhibition of old song sheets. Why not a pen-wiper exhibit? A glittering salon for egg facial treatments. A famous dancer in a carriage turnout. They get that way with fame.

The ancient toy and balloon sellers on their way to Central park. And the old man with the green skull cap who rides in a pony-drawn cart. Delicatessen window displays always make me hungry. Vincent Lopez is up early. Eastern culture—a man steps on a lady's foot and hurries on without a word.

Those towers of dullness who idle in club windows. Crowds waiting for strollers—dodging calories. The cordial traffic cop at 47th and 5th avenue.

Business is picking up at soda fountains. And slowing up at fur shops. Hot dog and barbecue stands are opening along Long Island roads. Winter is making her bow!

A rather hospitable bachelor found his open-hearted generosity a little too irksome. The crowd began to collect for cocktails before he had shaken off dregs of sleep. He stood it for a long while, being the gentleman he was, but finally he took a desperate step. Across the entrance door is a glittering glass sign with letters reading: "Never At Home.' It recalls the painted board sign at the gateway of Joaquin Miller's home in the Sierras. It reads: "Not Here—Further On Up the Road."

There is a district in the East Fifties that is becoming known as Beauty Row. Here are the shrines of innumerable cults of beauty. Wrinkles are ironed out and the aquilinity of noses are restored. Fat is boiled or rubbed out. Hair is silvered, hennaed or given a golden sheen.

One advertises as a Beautician. And another as a Cosmetologist. It is in a quiet, little traveled district, and the patrons usually motor up and rush into the salons as though they feared being discovered.

There are about 50 shops in the district. In all Manhattan the list is more than 2,000. The old title of beauty expert has been discarded. Most of them like to be known as cosmetic practitioners. The shops are usually in easy walking distance of the theatres and cafes. The heaviest patronage is from the stage. Show girls often make daily visits.

There are several millionaire beauty experts in New York. One man has made a large fortune removing superfluous hair. But the biggest revenue of beauty parlors comes from the sale of beautifying lotions. Their ingredients are inexpensive, but if a demand is created a big price is charged without the slightest protest. What price beauty?

A big boost for beauty experts resulted from the successful facial operations on Fannie Brice, Bebe Daniels and Edna Ferber. And, of course, Fannie Ward.

HASKIN'S LETTER

By FREDERIC J. HASKIN

Vocational Rehabilitation.

WASHINGTON, March 26.—The greatest experiment in welfare work ever undertaken by the American government, or by any other government, is officially coming to a close on June 30, 1926, but it will probbly at at least five years before even the closest student of social service will be able to judge fairly whether the experiment has been a success. Even then opinions will differ about the outcome, because the element of cost is involved, and the cost has been heavy.

The experiment is the vocational rehabilitation of disabled service men of the World war. Vocational rehabilitation means taking a disabled man and teaching him a new means of livelihood. The reports of the United States Veterans' Bureau indicate that 117,053 disabled men have been rehabilitated and that 12,000 are still in training. This training terminates by law on June 30, and even if congress permits an extension of time for a few special cases, the experiment is practically complete. No more men will enter into training, and the few who remain in training after June 30 will soon finish their courses.

What has this experiment in the remaking of men accomplished? Has the government actually taken a whole army of men shattered in body, and to some extent in mind and spirit, and made them over as good as new? And what has it cost? Some of the facts are available to answer these questions. Others will not be at hand until sufficient time has elapsed to prove the outcome.

Congress first passed the law providing that soldiers disabled in the war to such extent that they could not pursue their former ocupations should be eligible for training in new occupations. During the period of training they should be supported by the government.

This was not so simple as it sounded. First, the wounds or diseases must be cured so that men could study and work. Next, the ability to pursue the pre-war ocupation must be judged, and then the probable success of the man in his new choice of vocation. Government officials soon came to realize that a disabled man was not a normal person. Rehabilitating him was something like bringing up a child, only he had the habits of a grown person. A few of the three-quarters of a million men who asked for rehabilitation had some educational background beyond the grade schools. Most did not ,and many had little schooling of any sort.

Applicants Weeded Out.

Of the many applicants, thousands were found to have no real disability, or very little, and were not allowed training. Other thousands never accepted the training when it was offered. Other thousands did not remain long in the training courses. Many took sick and some died. About 200,000 really got into training, and

COURT REFUSES NEW TRIALS

Judge Hanley Overrules Motions by George Kouvalis.

Municipal Judge J. C. Hanley has overruled motions for new trials in the cases of Frank Owens of Parkersburg against George Kouvalis, restaurant owner, and Alex Lewis against Kouvalis.

In jury trials, Owen was given a judgment of $218.52 for rent and taxes against Kouvalis, while Lewis was awarded $125 for wages.

Judgment for $40 has been rendered in favor of Logan Smith in the suit against David Southall. The award is for a stove alleged to have been lost from a truck while being removed to Wellsville, four years ago.

For room and board, Laura Pennybaker has been awarded judgment of $25.17 against Ray Mitchell.

H. H. Hall, Maplewood grocer, has been allowed a claim for $61.70 against Albert Gatrell, Richardson avenue. The money represents a grocery bill, according to Hall's statement.

Perfect Score Is Rolled By Reinlie In Ten Pins

Racine, Wis., Man Hits 300 Mark in American Bowling Congress at Toledo.

TOLEDO, March 26.—A perfect score was rolled here today in the American Bowling congress by Charles Reinlie of Racine, Wis., a member of Riepel's Arcade team. It is the first time in 13 years and the second time in the history of the organization that a game of 300 has been chalked up in tournament. The only other perfect mark was made here in 1913 by Billy Knox of Philadelphia.

Reinlie, paired with R. Riepel, was bowling in the doubles. He scored but 167 in his first game, achieved his great performance in the second and wound up in the third with 183. He and Riepel went into seventh place by virtue of them combined total of 1,278 in the two men events.

The perfect game was rolled on two much-shunned alleys, Nos. 1 and 2, popularly accredited with being "jinxed." Reinlie hit "in the pocket" in every frame but two—the third and eighth when he crossed over but knocked all the pins down.

On his last ball spectators believed that No. 8 pin had been left standing but two others, rebounding from the sideboards, hit it simultaneously and wiped it off.

Reinlie, 30, has been bowling 10 years and rolls and average of 193 in two Racine leagues.

necessarily less valuable than they were, but gamblers, when frightened, throw their stocks overboard all together, and there is no one to buy.

YOU hear it said "the foreign element must be cleared out of Chicago to wipe out crime."

And you hear "the foreign element must be kept out of the United States that our beautiful, clean American stock may develop free from contamination."

That sounds well, but the three most vicious murders that have recently attracted attention in Greater New York "all came of clean American parentage, but went to the bad early."

That is enlightening. It isn't the man or woman, foreign-born, coming here for a chance to work hard, that means the welfare of the United States.

used in the trial were turned over to the jurors before they retired.

One of the indictments charging Mrs. Camwell with embezzlement contained 65 different counts. The other comprised 11 charges. A forgery indictment, which was also returned, will not be pressed at this session of court.

Mrs. Camwell is at liberty on $5,000 bond furnished by her father, Joseph Dostal, of Butler, who was one of the principal witnesses in his daughter's behalf.

Mrs. Camwell was arrested at Midland about six weeks ago. She and her husband, William Camwell, former member of the state police and now employed as yardmaster for the Crucible Steel company, occupied an elaborately furnished home in Twelfth street. A bank account of $6,000, which the woman and her husband held jointly, came from the salaries of the two, from hand-painted china which the woman sold, from boarders and roomers and from her father who testified that he had sent his daughter gifts of $10, $25 and $50 weekly since she came to Midland about a year ago.

WAVE LENGTH RE-ALLOCATION IS PROPOSED

Hoover May Solve Radio Station Problem.

CONGRESS TO ACT

Five Hundred Applications for Broadcasting Licenses.

WASHINGTON, March 26.—With 500 applications for licenses to operate new radio stations pending before Secretary of Commerce Hoover, plans were being laid today by the department of commerce for a general re-allocation of wave lengths.

The re-allocation will be made soon after congress acts on the radio bills now pending. Should the act fail of passage the government radio authorities will complete the re-assignment of wave lengths during the summer.

Chief Radio Inspector W. D. Terrell said that in the re-allocation the first aim will be to make a better distribution of the present operating stations over the wave lengths from 200 to 545 meters. A second consideration will be the assignment of frequency bands to as many as possible of the broadcasting applicants.

Only a few of the 500 new applicants will obtain wave lengths. Others will be placed on the waiting list and assigned places on the radio scale when existing stations drop out.

In the awarding of new stations the sections of the country which are not well served with broadcasting will be given initial consideration although Terrell said that most of the applicants are from the already congested areas.

Thomas Skeyhill, Student of World Affairs, to Lecture

Fifth and concluding number of the high school lecture course will be given in the High school auditorium tonight when Thomas Skeyhill, a "student of world affairs," will lecture.

Skeyhill has traveled more than a quarter of million miles during the last 10 years. A Turkish shell in the Dardanelles campaign robbed him of his sight for three years. An operation in 1918 restored his vision. He won fame as a war loan speaker; attended the peace conference; later ran the lines into Soviet Russia as one of the first uninvited visitors to that country. He toured Europe again in 1922, attended the Geneva conference and visited Near East, Balkans, Italy, Germany, France and England.

He will deliver one of three of his famous lectures, "The Coming Renaissance in Europe," "The New Elizabethans" and "A Young Man Looks at His World."

Jack Horner, 25-1, Detroit Horse, Wins Race in England

LIVERPOOL, Eng., March 26.—Jack Horner today won the Grand National—the world's greatest steeplechase event. Old Taybridge finished second and Bright's Boy third.

The starting prices were:

Jack Horner, 25 to 1; Old Taybridge 8 to 1; Bright's Boy, 25 to 1.

Jack Horner won a great victory for America, for this horse is owned by C. Schwarts of Detroit, who purchased it two weeks ago for $20,000. It is estimated that the purse won today by Jack Horner will amount to $30,000, and it is to be presumed that the owner backed the horse as well.

Two American horses finished in the money, for Bright's Boy, which finished third, is owned by S. (Laddie) Sanford, who won the Grand National several years ago with Sergeant Murphy.

Court Building Need

Why not put this to work for another improvement?"

A modern four-story building, which would house every department in the city and provide a public auditorium on the fourth floor, if erected on the Central fire station site, would cost about $175,000 to $200,000 according to estimates given Kerr by builders, he reported.

Prosecuting Attorney Brookes advised the purchase of the Croxall Chemical & Supply company property at the intersection of Broadway, Fourth and Union street. He pointed out that schools, library, lodge temples, hotels, Y. M. C. A., girls' home, theatres and postoffice were located within less than two squares of this site, which is rapidly becomeing a community center. He suggested a city hall on this lot and a new building on the Central fire station location.

Need More Taxes, Hilbert Says.

James S. Hilbert, who represented the Chamber of Commerce and Rotary club, admitted the city's need for a municipal building but declared "taxpayers must go down in their pockets and furnish more money for the operating expenses of the city." Both police force and fire departments are handicapped by the lack of men, and there is no hope for relief except by increased taxes, he declared. He also urged the sale of unused real estate, as advocated by Kerr.

Mayor Benedum, who represented the Kiwanis club, asserted that he was present to "listen in" on the meeting.

"We are all agreed that the city needs a new building if the funds can be obtained," the executive said. "Let us work for this improvement in harmony."

Samuel Mountford, representing the Sons of St. George, said his committee wanted to hear what was said and would report back to their organization.

Representatives from Pleasant Heights reported that hilltop residents generally favored a city hall, but wanted the market house fund kept intact. Elwyn Shenkel and Percy Calhoun were spokesmen from the Pleasant Heights people.

Remoleding Out of Question.

At this point Kerr declared that he was opposed to a large bond issue but felt that the improvement could be obtained with a small issue if unsued city real estate were sold.

William S. Pittenger, representing the Northside Community association, said he was present merely to hear the plan outlined.

"Remodeling of the city hall is out of the question," said Service-Safety Director J. W. Moore. "I believe the purpose of this meeting is to ascertain whether the people want a new building. Nothing more can be accomplished. A bond issue of $150,000 would not mean a big levy. Place one-half a mill levy on your tax duplicate and this building could be paid for in 20 years. The increased taxes would amount to but little. We don't want to appear extravagant, but the city needs a building that will fill its requirements in years to come. We must have more taxes. It is impossible to run the city on the same money as we had 10 years ago."

Attorney William S. Foulks stated that members of the Lions' club favored the proposal, although no endorsement of the proposition had been voted. He suggested the Taylor lot, Sixth street, as a site for the building.

Oppose Sale of Playgrounds.

At this point Brookes offered a motion that President Kerr appoint a committee from council to list feasible sites and prices.

Mrs. A. J. Savage, a representative of the City Federation of Labor, asserted that her committee favored the new building but was opposed to the sale of the playground lot unless another suitable lot were furnished the children. "Character is made largely in play as well as in the schools and in the home," she added.

Mrs. John Bowers, chairman of the recreation committee of the club federation urged retention of the Second street playlot. She declared that the corner lots opopsite the city hall would be unsatisfactory for a play center. She also voiced a plea for public support of the playground movement.

Mrs. Louis Steinfeld, another women's club worker, said that she was a member of the committee which arranged for the city purchase of the playground lot at the corner of Second and Washington street and was opposed to the sale of it. "I appeal to you to take care of the little ones," were her closing words.

Market House Discussion.

"As long as I am in council we will take care of the children," Councilman Thomas Farrall replied with reference to the plea of the club women. "I am a member of Trades Council and worked for the passage of the market house bond issue. I favored it then, but we know we cannot build a market house for $38,000, and it is a losing proposition. The money can be used for a purpose which would benefit the city. We have fine churches, lodges and theatres but a disgraceful city building. I am opposed to buying property on Second street.

"Would a market house pay in East Liverpool?" Attorney S. W. Crawford inquired of Farrall.

"No, not now," was Farrall's reply. "Trades council isn't the whole city. Let the people vote on it. The money can be utrned back into the sinking fund by a gentleman's agreement without a vote of the people if we see fit."

Purle Smith, representing the Knights of Pythias, said he was uninstructed by members of his organization but personally favored the city hall project.

William Hardy declared that the "vote of Trades and Labor council didn't mean a thing so far as the market house project is concerned." "Residents of Newell and Chester belong to this organization," he said. "Put the city hall to a vote of the people and it will go over big."

Cites Need of Firemen.

Howard Steel, of the Knights of Malta, declared the city needed a municipal building, but asserted that a market house would be a losing proposition. "It failed in Steubenville and Youngstown and would fail here," he said.

Joseph Betz, president of the Chamber of Commerce, declared that one of the blackest spots in the city today was the undermanned fire department. "We have seven pieces of appartus and only five men to drive them. We will have a fire here some day that will cost us ont only our property but lives as well. We should have more firemen, some way, somehow."

Lawrence Smith declared that a new city hall was in line with the movement for improved civic pride. S. C. Williams, Kiwanis club delegate, and Charles Hendershot also advocated a new building if it could be financed. Joseph Smith, of the Lions' club, also spoke in favor of the improvement. R. M. Baur, representing the American Legion, stressed the need of a public auditorium in the proposed new structure which he favored. Transfer of the market house money to a city hall fund was favored by Joseph Strauss, assistant C. & P. ticket agent.

"We voted a bond issue for roads last November and started to pay for it in January," said Attorney S. W. Crawford. "Our taxes were not increased but lowered. We could take on a little civic pride here and provide a new city building. The cost would be small. I favor this improvement and believe members of the Odd Fellows' lodge feel likewise."

Councilman Farrall pointed out that valuable property in the township should be taken into the city. He declared that township residents worked in the city and maintained their home outside of it where taxes were low.

All members of council with the exception of Solons Hughes and Hayes attend the meeting.

REPORTS FROM STOCK MARKET

of Anthony Paladino and Leon Kramer, members of the gang. Paladino disclosed, according to the authorities, how the Whittemore gang worked with the smoothness of a well-coached football team.

Every robbery was rehearsed in advance, and each man was coached in the part he was to play.

Paladino named two fences, who bought the proceeds of most of the robberies. These men are being hunted and, if captured, will face long prison terms.

As far as the bandits themselves are concerned, Banton said he has plenty of evidence to convict them all. Whittemore will be turned over to Maryland officials soon, it is believed, to face trial for killing an aged prison guard. Whittemore also has been identified as one of the bandits who took part in the killing of two bank guards in a hold-up at Buffalo, N. Y.

Plan for Referendum

tial elections, if the wets are successful. Dry leaders will be asked to co-operate in getting the referendum authorized by congress.

Both wets and drys mean while were preparing lists of witnesses to be summoned to testify about prohibition at the "beer" hearings which start April 5 before the senate judiciary committee. The wets will hold the stage first, having been granted the week of April 5 to 10 to present testimony in support of their demand for legislation legalizing "beer and wines" up to the point where the liquors are "intoxicating in fact." Such legislation, the wets contend, would not require any change in the eighteenth amendment.

April 12-17 Drys' Week.

The drys will be heard during the week of April 12 to 17 to present testimony refuting the wet arguments and in defense of the existing dry law. Although much preparation is being made by both sides for the hearings, neither faction anticipates any action by the present congress toward modifying the law. The hearings rather will be used by both wets and drys as a propaganda agency to get their views before the American people and to arouse the country on the "wet and dry" issue, which will undoubtedly be injected into the 1928 campaigns.

The "wet" case will be directed by Capt. W. H. Stayton, of Baltimore, and Julian Codman, of Boston. Codman, a prominent attorney, will have charge of the examination of wet witnesses. On the "dry" side, Wayne B. Wheeler, generalissimo of the anti-saloon league, will direct the presentation of evidence supporting the dry law.

New Witnesses' Stories May Save Chapman From Hanging

Master Bandit's Counsel Will Seek Writ of Habeas Corpus in U. S. District Court.

NEW YORK, March 26.—Scouts were scouring Connecticut and Massachusetts today for new witnesses whose testimony, according to Frederick J. Groehl, chief counsel for Gerald Chapman, may save the superbandit from hanging in Wethersfield prison a week from next Monday for killing a New Britain, Conn., policeman.

So certain is Groehl that this new evidence, if obtainable, will warrant a new trial, that he will seek a writ of habeas corpus today in the United States courts.

Two new witnesses have been located. Charles W. Gregory, a New York machinist, who disappeared after promising to testify for Chapman, wired Groehl that he is on his way here from northern New York state. The other is a young man who signed himself "Fair Play" on a postcard, offering to testify if Chapman was convicted. It is said that he saw the slayer of James Skelly, the New Britain policeman, and knows he was not Chapman.

For corroboration of "Fair Play's" story, Groel is seeking a woman who is said to have accompanied the young man from New Britain to New York.

A handsome young woman, whose identity could not be learned, was present yesterday at a conference of Chapman's attorneys here.

Hear

"Always"

Irving Berlin's newest, most appealing of love-songs, recorded in the New Victor Way

"Always" will strike a responsive chord the minute you hear its tender, crooning melody. For this great love-song, written from the heart by Irving Berlin, tells the story of the longing and desire of all the world.

This beautiful, haunting melody is available in three separate forms—as a waltz, played by George Olsen and His Music; as a fox trot, played by the International Novelty Orchestra; and as a tenor solo, sung by Henry Burr. Each is different, each is superlatively well done.

Hear these records, made and played in the incomparable Victor manner. You will be amazed by the playing quality of the new Victor Records. They have new beauty and power that will thrill you. Dance music on these new records puts the orchestra right into the room. The deep, guttural "bong" of the bass beats out a rich rhythm that is easily heard above the shuffle of happy feet.

Ask the nearest Victor dealer to play the "Always" records for you, and scores of others equally good, on the new Orthophonic Victrola. Today!

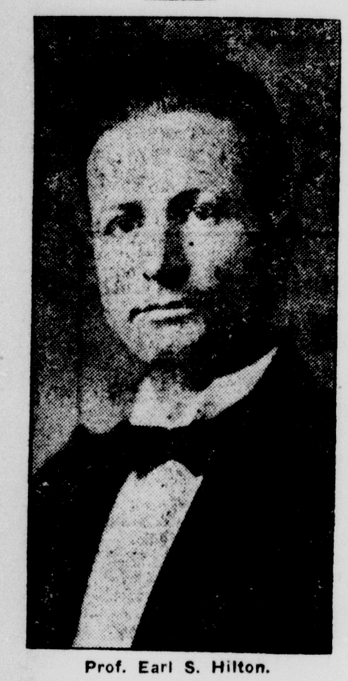
EARL S. HILTON'S PUPILS SCORE HIT IN YOUNGSTOWN CONCERT RECITAL



Prof. Earl S. Hilton.

Mrs. Earl S. Hilton.

Piano pupils of Prof. Earl S. Hilton, former resident here, scored a decided hit in an illustrated concert recital given recently in the Moose temple, Youngstown.

Mrs. Earl Hilton, soprano; Miss Jennie Rosson, reader, and the Junior Serenaders, a children's orchestra, assisted in the program. Screen pictures were used in illustrating the various numbers.

Prof. Hilton is a graduate of Dr. Little's Conservatory of Music, Beaver, with the class of 1912. He has appeared in public recitals in Pittsburgh, Youngstown, Beaver and this city. He has maintained studios in Youngstown and East Liverpool for the past 14 years.

Mrs. Hilton, who has a sweet lyric soprano voice, has been studying voice culture for 17 years. Her preparation teachers were Miss Selma Ladzinski, of this city, and Prof. Lawrence Roderick, of Pittsburgh. After singing with the choir of the First Methodist Episcopal church here for three years, Mrs. Hilton completed a course in piano and voice in Beaver college. She then enrolled at Otterbein University in 1915 and studied voice with Prof. Bendinger, piano with Miss Lula Barker and harmony with Prof. Grable. She was a member of a glee club at this school. She has appeared in recitals at Westerville, London Heights, Newark, East Liverpool and Youngstown.

George Thompson Gives Recital.

George Thompson, a former local boy, now head of the organ department of the North Carolina College for Women, gave an organ recital in Temple Emmanuel, Greensboro, N. C., recently. The selections, which were rendered, covered a varied field. There was "The Kol Nidre," a traditional Hebrew melody, in which the artist revealed the pathos of the tortured Jewish soul; "Gavotte, from Mignon," and "Toccata, from the Fifth Symphony" with which Mr. Thompson brought the program to an end.

MINE WORKERS STAGE STRIKE

Elm Grove Walkout Caused by Dispute Over Pay Days.

Seventeen hundred miners of the Elm Grove Mining company went on a strike yesterday when the company refused to pay them every two weeks instead of monthly. The strike order was issued by President John Cinque, of sub-district No. 5, of district No. 6, United Mine Workers, comprising eastern Ohio and the northern Panhandle of West Virginia. Joseph Arkwright, general manager of the company, stated that so far no arrangements have been made to confer with mine leaders in hopes of settleing the wage controversy.

Mine No. 1 is hit the hardest since 450 men have been working up until today. No. 2 mine employes have been out for several days, while No. 3 mine has not been operating since February, when the miners were ordered to wear the special safety electric lamps.

The miners of No. 2 mine of the Elm Grove Coal company refused to return to work on March 16 when they were informed by officials they would be paid monthly.

Relative to the men employed at No. 3 mine, they were ordered to use the safety lamp which had been made compulsory by the state bureau of mines. The bureau prohibited further use of open lights due to the large amount of gas which is reported at various times in different sections of mine No. 3.

Bad Liquor, Women and Gambling Get Tia Juana $1,000,000 A Month

"Shame Suicides" of American Family Fail to Stir Crusade to Clean up Border Resorts, Where Vice is Still Rampant.

TIJUANA, Mexico.—More than $250,000—considered an honest estimate—is being spent weekly in this Mexican border village of vice and Tijuana's gambling and drinking life continues day and night at a mad pace.

Clyde and Audrey Peteet, the two American girls who snuffed out their lives in a gas-filled room with their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Peteet, formerly of Kansas City, after a night of horror in Tijuana's dens and dives, apparently gave their lives vainly.

Tijuana today is as sordid a picture as ever of bad liquor, wild women and every form of gambling.

More than a month has passed since the four Peteets, following the outraging of the two girls by Mexicans, including the deposed chief of police of Tijuana, ended their lives in "shame suicides," hoping their deaths would be avenged by a clean-up of the American-patronized town and Tijuana be made safe for visitors.

But less than a dozen resorts have been closed in the promised clean-up. The big "palaces of joy," flooded with thousands of bright lights, adorned with dazzling bars and moaning jazz orchestras, still flourish night and day.

In the town's demimonde, many women are missing, driven across the border to San Diego, where it is reported, they are to remain for only a few weeks before returning to the carnal town.

The racing season is at its height and hundreds pour their gold on the runners' backs daily.

Card games, dice, slot machines and other forms of gambling are rampant. Huge slot machines, where anything from 5 cents to a dollar, may be played line the bars. Winnings are seldom reported.

Having sold 35 of its 40 vessels and placed the others in government navy service, Portugal has dissolved its natural merchant marine.

MOLASSES ON RAIL TRACK RUINED SOUTH AFRICAN TRAIN SERVICE

CAPE TOWN, South Africa.—When a train from the northeast steamed into Durban eighty-five minutes late the officials were astonished to learn that the reason for the delay was treacle on the line.

Investigations up the line found this to be true. The treacle was in a large tank on one of the trucks of a goods train, and from some cause or another the tank leaked and the metals, over a considerable distance, became coated with the liquid.

The passenger train, on reaching the affected portion of the line, quickly slowed down, and at a slight gradient came to a standstill altogether. The wheels revolved, but the train did not budge.

This went on for half an hour, when another train came along and was joined to the stationary one. An extra train was also obtained to push the two trains along, but without success.

Finally, by the use of large quantities of grit on the metals, the train was unstuck and resumed its journey.

Couldn't Stand the Job

FOUND HE WAS LICKED WHEN HE WENT TO THE TEST

Old Story to the World's Pep Treatment Man Carries Lesson for Sick People

"That man reminds me of Big Jim Hathaway, over in Indianapolis," said the World's Pep Treatment man, as a big stranger left Carnahan's. "Big Jim was one of the huskiest fellows I ever saw, but he had to quit a job of bossing a labor gang because he wasn't strong enough to hold up his end.

"Big Jim wouldn't believe anything could get him down. He met his match by getting a hard cold, however. He let that cold hang on for months, until he looked like he had shrunken. But he was able to get around and he wouldn't give up. This labor gang was a tough crowd. The employer knew it, but he knew Jim's reputation and he made him boss. Jim went at it, too, but the second day he just sat down and bawled like a baby because he had lost all his strength. The gang knew it and he couldn't boss them for a minute.

"That was the day before I met him and advised him to take World's Pep Treatment. I never saw a worse case for such a short time. He was as weak a big man as I ever saw.

"Well, the first month of World's Pep Treatment helped him a little. The second put him on his feet. After the third he hunted up that gang of roughnecks, and they got a real surprise. Jim has bossed that gang for several months now, and nobody starts anything with him either. That's the trouble with a lot of folks. When their glands slow up they depend on their own strength until it is gone and then they are wrecks. A package of World's Pep Treatment as soon as they begin to slow up would save them a lot of trouble, but they wait until they are real bad. I suppose because of this I sell more World's Pep treatment, but I hate to see suffering, and if I could make people realize what a wonderful remedy World's Pep Treatment is there would be many more happy people." Get it at once and start today at Carnahan's, Brannan's in Wellsville, and all other up-to date drug stores.

Price

Price is always a practical fact to be faced, even by those who instinctively seek the best. Yet price need not be an obstacle in the selection of engagement and wedding rings. The Traub trade mark identifies Genuine Orange Blossom and guarantees quality, yet allows a wide selection at prices that vary according to the style and jeweling selected. The two rings pictured above are Genuine Orange Blossom, beautifully hand-chased in iridio-platinum or 18K gold—yet they represent a very moderate expenditure.

Chicago Cops Try Cafeteria Plan For Traffic Troubles

If Pinched, You Can Sign Jury Waiver, Plead Guilty to Policeman and Send Check.

CHICAGO.—The cafeteria plan has been applied to violators of the Chicago traffic laws.

If you're pinched now for any one of a hundred or two minor infractions of the ordinance relating to parking, speeding, lights, stopping and so on, you can sign a jury waiver, plead guilty to the arresting policeman and send the traffic court a check for the proper fine.

The arrest slips are printed. On the back appear the standardized fine rates. On the front side the policeman checks the offense for which he has taken you in. If you refuse to sign the waiver he presents at the same time, he makes out and serves on the spot a summons to court.

Certain offenses require a court appearance. They include such breaches of the law as driving while intoxicated, piloting a car that does not belong to you, operating a vehicle if you are a minor and reckless driving.

Other court appearances are mandatory for those who offend more than twice. The first time is productive of fines ranging from $1 to $5 and the second of fines from $3 to $10.

NO ONE NEED SUFFER ANY MORE WITH LAME BACK, RHEUMATISM PAINS OR SORE MUSCLES

Get Yourself a Bottle of Mike Martin's Liniment—the Kind Used at Ball Parks by Big League Stars. Apply Per Mike Martin's Directions on Bottle. Away Goes All Pain, Soreness, Swelling at Once.

SURE, QUICK, SAFE AND CHEAP; IT NEVER STAINS OR BLISTERS

Why Use Old-Fashioned Remedies—This Works Almost Like Magic.

It is the easiest thing in the world to relieve the aches, pains, swelling, stiffness and agony of neuritis, neuralgia, lumbago, sciatica, or rheumatism nowadays. Such things as lame back, achy, crippled feet, sprains, water on the knee, stiff joints, etc., can be relieved in a jiffy if you wish.

Of course oldtime weaker remedies often failed and worked slow but among professional athletes they use a liniment that is unquestionably the finest, quickest, surest and best that money can buy.

Drop in at the drug store tonight and ask for a bottle of Mike Martin's Liniment, made by the famous trainer, Mike Martin of the Washington ball club. You'll find with each bottle a folder telling just how to use it. You'll see just how they fix up big league baseball stars who suddenly develop a lame back, sore muscles, rheumatic pains, sprained ankles, etc. You will find how they apply this remarkable liniment to a man who suffers periodically with lumbago or other forms of rheumatism so as to prevent him having attacks. You see in the folder how they apply it to keep the men from catching colds, becoming stiff, sore, achy or lame from over-exercise or exposure in the cold and rain.

Worth a Fortune

A small bottle of Mike Martin's Liniment and the directions he gives for its use is worth a fortune when some night rheumatic pains torture you, or you feel achy, lame and bad all over.

Until a short time ago Mike Martin supplied this liniment to professional athletes only. Now he has made up a huge batch and through drug stores is offering it to the public. Thousands of suffering men and women who have used it declare Mike Martin's Liniment is positively marvelous. One thing is certain: High salried big league stars wouldn't fool with anything but the quickest, safest, surest and best that money can buy. Walter Johnson, Ty Cobb, Coveleski and other would never in the world risk anything but the best on their arms, shoulders, back and limbs. It is certain that the Pittsburgh Pirates would never use the liniments made by the Washington Club's Trainer unless it was better than anything they could buy elsewhere.

Folks troubled years with lame back, rheumatic pains, etc., say that in just a few applications of Mike Martin's Liniment, applied according to this famous trainer's directions, they got complete and amazing relief. Carnahan's Drug Stores, and all good drug stores.

RAY KREMER, Pitcher,
World Champion "Pirates."

"We ball players get lame, stiff, sore, achy and crippled up a lot. Using the right liniment is important with us. I use Mike Martin's Liniment because it is the best made.

"Mike is doing a big thing for the public in selling it for a low price in drug stores. It's worth ten times what it costs." Signed, Ray Kremer, Pittsburgh Pirates.

Pittsburgh Trainer Also Praises It.

"I use Mike Martin's Liniment because it is the quickest, surest, most effective liniment made for aches, pains, strains, lameness, soreness and stiff joints. It is wonderful liniment. Beats them all." Signed, George Aston, Trainer, Pittsburgh Pirates.

GLENN WRIGHT, S.S.,
Pittsburgh "Pirates."

"It seemed funny during the World Series to see both teams using the same liniment, but you've got to take your hat off to Mike Martin. His liniment is wonderful, even if he is on the Washington team." Signed, Glenn Wright.

JOHN MORRISON,
Pitcher,
Pittsburgh "Pirates."

"Mike Martin could charge ten times what he does of that liniment of his and not a soul would refuse to pay it. It is the finest liniment made and no mistake." Signed, John Morrison.

LEE MEADOWS, Pitcher,
Pittsburgh Champions.

"Sure I use Mike Martin's Liniment. I hurt my elbow during the first game of the World Series. Mike's Liniment fixed it up quick—just like it does any ache or pain." Signed, Lee Meadows.

"VIC" ALDRIDGE,
Pitcher,
World Champs "Pirates"

"Mike Martin's Liniment is quick, sure and wonderful. I pitched twice during the World Series with only a couple days' rest—and it kept my arm 'as loose as a goose,' and no soreness developed at all." Signed, Vic Aldridge.

JOHN RAWLINGS,
Infielder,
Pirates—World Champions.

"It sure is a grand and glorious feeling to get a rubdown with Mike Martin's Liniment when you feel all tired out, lame and sore. It takes the kinks out like magic." Signed, John Rawlings.

YES--THE PITTSBURGH "PIRATES" USE MIKE MARTIN'S LINIMENT--DO YOU?

Cafes and Amusements Now Prosper in Japan In Spite of Hard Times

TOKYO — Hard times may prevail in Japan, but the cafes, restaurants, theatres and other places of amusement are prosperous and flourishing, according to officials of the Metropolitan Police Bureau.

An investigation conducted by the police department reveals that during the first ten days of January, a period always given over to celebrations in Japan, more than $4,000,000 was spent by Tokyo pleasure-seekers.

The new cheap long-distance rates on German railways have proved so popular that water shipping on the Rhine and Main has been reduced to almost nothing.

Are you following this new advice of New York beauties?

Use the Soap that Stimulates Skin

"Choose a soap," they say, "that cleans tiny pores full length and then stimulates the areas around them"—for by this method you can have skin that is healthy, vivid, soft.

And the soap that is best for both purposes they say, is Jap Rose.

Because of its purity (you can see through it) Jap Rose can enter and cleanse your tiny pores that coarse soaps would clog.

And the 2 natural tonics Jap Rose contains, stimulate the tissues beneath; the blood grows lively, new color comes.

The temporary tingle that follows its first use shows that your skin is returning to normal and new beauty is in prospect.

MODERNISTS ARE SCORED BY DR. J. M. KOEHNE

Speaks on "Popular Phases of Doubt" at Presbyterian Church.

CONDEMNS JAZZ

Points Out There Will be Future Punishment.

That present-day civilization needs a modern religion to fulfill its alleged superior requirements was emphatically denied by Dr. John M. Koehne, of London, N. H., in his second of a series of discourses bulwarking fundamentalist doctrines at the First Presbyterian church last evening. But for some new discoveries in the field of science, the world accompiishments of the moment are not what they once were, he asserted. "Wherefore," he asked, "since our physical powers are the same is there need for anything more?"

Dr. Koehne spoke on "Popular Phases of Doubt." His theme tonight will be: "Skeptical Theories About Christ."

Though yet feeling the effects of a recent slight indisposition, Dr. Koehne was uncompromising in analysis of the untenable position of those who averred the religion of the fathers had become passe in this rapidly moving interim in the life of the world. With wonderful grasp of ideas and profundity of thought he exhibited the opposing viewpoint as possessed of glaring weaknesses and incompatible with proved facts.

Dr. Koehne was again introduced by Dr. D. W. MacLeod, First Presbyterian pastor, who declared all the addresses to be given by the New England minister would be "statements of a master in this line of religious investigation and that not a single church of his own denomination, the Congregational, would permit him the opportunity of proclaiming the ideas thus released.'

As at the initial service on Wednesday evening a song service preceded the address. It was directed by Oliver Johnson of the First Presbyterian choir. The invocation was made by Rev. L. J. Davison, pastor of the First United Presbyterian church.

Members of other than the co-operating churches were in attendance, including some of their pastors.

Refers to Devotees of Vice.

Dr. Koehne took the stand that so-called modernism does not now exist in fact. "We have the same muscles, nerves and bodies as in the past," he explained. "The human brain is a sponge that can absorb all that is known as it always could. Babes are not born now with the ability to read Shakespeare. They must learn the alphabet as their mental powers unfold as children have done since time began. So threre is no need for any scholarly dunces writing a code of ethics for the modern mind as differentiated from that that obtained in the past."

"Present-day devotees of vice do not really know wickedness as those did in the past," he maintained. "Why this jazz music that young folks now take to with such avidity has been danced for centuries by naked African savages. Is there anything modern about it? Is there about the crime wave? About death? Your modern girl does not ask for a lip stick when she is dying."

"Death," he went on, "is the same now as of old. What is modern about it? It is the same mystery it ever was. Only its certainty is as always. And how then would you say that a new religion to suit a new civilization is needed? For in truth we are not modern. In painting we have refuge for ideals in the old masters; where have we improved in Scripture over the contributions of Michael Angelo? How has the architecture of St. Peter's cathedral been improved upon? In jurisprudence were were equaled 2,000 years before Abraham. Liberty is not a modern idea that was born when Patrick Henry exclaimed: "Give me liberty or give me death." Why Moses gave us that notion in the inscription noted on the long cracked liberty bell. Let us not be deluded with our alleged modernism."

Insincerity in Politics.

Here Dr. Koehne took a fling at the insincerity of political parties. "In our two parties the difference lies in the quality and quantity of lies they release," he declared.

Dr. Koehne declared so-called agnostics were wrong in refusing to accept that which they could not demonstrate. He took the stand that few things could be. He analyzed the parts of an inch as the basis of measurements which he indicated could be indefinitely done. "By no process," he affirmed, "can something be divided into nothing; there is always something left." Thus he argued it was manifestly wrong to refuse the condition of a demonstration. "How can anything be demonstrated without accepting it?" he asked.

"Christ was a physical fact, men saw him. Christianity is a physical fact, we have seen persons transformed by it. Christ is the pyramid of God and the New Testament His shadow. Human consciousness perceives Him. Moral facts are ever discerned. Who tells you it is wrong to steal? Your conscience which makes it an eternal verity. Christ is a moral fact. Let your conscience read your Bible. Those doing so, if members of a Bible class, will not pass up church at the close of Sunday school."

Dr. Koehne declared it was impossible to reason Christ. He is spiritually known as are all spiritual facts. "We will know Christ on the same tearms we know God. For 2,000 years church scholars have tried to undo Christ and failed."

Dr. Koehne denied vigorously the general belief that God will not damn a man who sincerely doubts. "Can a falsehood be made true because of sincerity?" he interrogated. Saul sincerely denied Christ. But repenting of sins, truth stood out, despite his sincerity. When a thing is true, it is true in itself. It does not matter how sincere the doubter.

That there will be future punishment was also declared by Dr. Koehne. "This truth is not much preached these days," he opined. "Men say they do not believe there will be. What has that to do with it? If a man does not believe poison is such, will his life be saved if he swallows it? Do not be deluded."

Dr. Koehne closed with a detailed account of the burial of a soldier. He told finally of the bugler blowing "taps." But he concluded: "Skepticism has no bugler taps. Lights out'." For he indicated that will not be the end, no matter how great the sincerity of such a belief.

Before all succeeding sessions of the present combined tri-church meetings a prayer service will be held in the basement of the First Presbytery church. It will begin at 7:15 o'clock.

One of the floats at the last carnival at Nice, France, was a perambulator nearly 20 feet high filled with dolls representing types of French life.

Is Champion House Cleaner

"Your medicine is certainly the greatest cleaner I ever saw. I never thought such stuff could be in a human being. I am feeling ten years younger since taking the course of MAYR'S, and am telling everybody it is the champion house cleaner. My bloating in stomach and pains are all gone and I can eat anything." It is a simple, harmless preparation that removes the catarrhal mucus from the intestinal tract and allays the inflamation which causes practically all stomach, liver and intestinal ailments, including appendicitis. One dose will convince or money refunded.

Slattery Goes Limit With Young Stribling

Buffalo Pug Declines to Trade Wallops, Clinching Frequently; Georgian Fails to Take Advantage of K. O. Chance in Seventh.

By Davis J. Walsh.

NEW YORK, Mar. 26. — If Gene Tunney is half the man his exhorters would have one believe, then William Lawrence (Young) Stribling is entitled to consider himself fortunate that the Miami transaction neglected to transact. At any rate, William indicated as much last night when he failed to stop Jimmy Slattery in ten rounds.

All Stribling won was the decision. He lost nearly everything else, including prestige as an embryonic contender for the heavyweight title.

It may be of moment that Slattery was almost affectionate in the clinches, often holding both of Stribling's hands locked under his arm pits until the referee broke them. It isn't necessary to add that this cramped William's style beyond all reason, which was Slattery's inallenable privilege. It would not have been the best of good business to trade wallops, particularly when one is reputed to have a jaw with a porcelain inlay.

Still, they say it takes two to make a fight and that probably is the reason last night's activities came within the letter of the law. It was strictly a boxing exhibition.

Slattery, his confidence gone, declined to open up until the ninth round when it was apparent that he was due to go the limit. Twice in the last two rounds, he crossed his right to Stribling's jaw but the gesture was too long overdue to make much difference, if any, I gave him only two of the ten rounds. So much for Slattery.

Misses Big Chance.

As for Stribling, he cannot escape the onus of failing to knock Slattery out in the seventh round. Any man with a real punch would have done so. He had James ready for the big tumble from lefts and rights to the jaw, set himself for the finisher—and missed three of them. But a moment later, he caught Slattery full on the jaw with a right and nothing happened.

James never would have seen the eighth round against punchers like Berlenbach and Delaney.

The seventh round was one of a comparative few that produced anything savoring of action. Using a body attack whenever Slattery's affectionate arms would permit him, Stribling easily carried the first four rounds, although some of his strong arm work may have cut into his points. The fifth saw Slattery step inside Stribling's leads for counters that earned him a shade at the bell, but from the seventh to the ninth it was all Stribling.

Slattery got the benefit of the doubt in the ninth and the tenth was even, if anybody cared, which nobody did.

M.P.'s and Parks Are Cage Winners

In Sunday School cage league battles last night at the Y. M. C. A., the Methodist Protestants downed the Baptists, 41 to 37, and the Park Boulevards trimmed the Pennsylvania Avenue five, 18 to 13.

The M. P.-Baptist clash was close all the way, the Jackson street lads landing in the final five minutes, with C. Mackey, Ankrim and Carey leading the way. The Baptist stars were G. Mackey, Hall and Parsons.

The Avenue quint held the long end of the score in the opening period, but were overwhelmed by the Parks in the later stages of the game and finished second. F. Kirkham, Crawford and McKee performed well for the winners. Heath, Rose and Staley were the big guns for the Avenue outfit.

Mt. Union Champions In Tri-State Tourney

Squad Divides Ranks, Following Vote on New Captain, to Form Sigma Nu Serpents and Reviews; "Lefty" Miller in Action.

The entire Mt. Union college team, champions of the Ohio conference for three straight years, will be on the floor in the Tri-State amateur basketball tournament to be staged tomorrow at the high school and the Y. M. C. A. bringing with them Colin "Slim" Bromby, East Liverpool boy and the great "Lefty" Miller, crack center and conference star.

But they will not go on as a team—their ranks having been split to form the Sigma Nu Serpents and the Alliance Reviews, and thereby hangs a story.

The Sigma Nus wil be led by Bromby and will have Parker Orr, guard, in addition to Miller, and the two Burkle boys who rate pretty high themselves in basketball.

The Reviews will boast the services of George Wilcoxen, forward, Kenneth "Ducky" Mills, guard, Nelson "Curly" Ball, guard, and "Bo" Labor, guard, East Palestine boy, who captained last year's squad.

According to reports filtering in to the scene of the tourney games, the squad broke even on the matter of electing a captain for next season, Bromby being the Sigma Nu candidate. The battle of votes waxed hot and following the entry of Bromby's Sigma Nus in the local meet, the opposition decided to come into the fold and gathered their forces together to contest the Serpents' attempts.

The prospective meeting between the teams looms as the feature engagement of the tournament.

Both are booked in the lower backet, at 4:40 at the Y. M. C. A. The Serpents will play at 11:40 a. m. against the Webbers, of Pittsburgh, at the high school.

The tournament will start tomorrow morning at 9 o'clock and will run throughout the day with brief breathing spaces at noon and at 6 o'clock in the evening.

There will be afternoon games both on the high school floor and at the Y. M. C. A., tourney officials being compelled to double up on account of the large entry list.

The semi-finals will start tomorrow night at 7:30 o'clock, followed by the final. The last three games of the affair will be handled by Bill Watkins.

Sportsmen Plan Outing Program

A special meeting of the Columbiana County Fish and Game Protective association is scheduled to be held at the court house, Lisbon, Friday night, when additional plans will be considered for the annual field meet at the new state park at Guilford, July 28th.

The governing board met at Leetonia Thursday night for the purpose of organizing a branch of the county association there. Next week an organization meeting will very likely be held at Columbiana, and then one is scheduled for Salineville.

Copies of the fish and game laws of Ohio for the season of 1925-1926 have been received by Clerk of Courts Frank Ballantine from Director of Agriculture Charles V. Truax, and these are being distributed to those who make personal application. The book contains 64 pages, and in addition to giving the text of every fish and game law now in effect in Ohio, also refers to the penalties for violations.

'Ma' Stribling, Veteran Fight Fan, Calm While Son's Taking Punches

"Nervous?" Asks Reporter; "No," Says "Ma," "This is Old Stuff With Me." Billy's Bride Sees Battle.

By James L. Kilgallen.

NEW YORK, March 26. — Time: 10:30 p. m. Place: Ringside, Madison Square Garden. The main bout. The principals have just entered the ring.

"Ma" Stribling comes in unobstrusively from somewhere. She is here to see her boy, William Lawrence Stribling, the "Georgia Peach," do battle with Jimmy Slattery, the "Fighting Irishman" from Buffalo.

She takes a seat in the front row. She flashes a mother's loving smile at her stalwart son standing in the ring awaiting the gong.

"Young" Stribling looks down at her and winks.

"Billy's right tonight," remarks Ma. "I know that wink."

The bell. Round one. They're at it, two handsome, clean-limbed young gladiators.

"Ma" leans back comfortably. She takes a stop watch from her bag. Timepiece in hand she watches the fight. She is a pretty, youngish-looking mother, with smiling blue eyes and a sharp dimple in her chin.

Dreams of Championship.

"Nervous?" reporter asks Ma.

"Not a bit," Ma replies. "This is old stuff with me. I've seen all of his fights."

As the round ends, Ma remarks that "Pa" looks busy. Mr. Stribling is in the Stribling corner, dabbing a sponge on his son's face.

Picking up the thread of the interview, Ma continues:

"No, I'm never nervous any more when my boy's in there, giving and taking it. I'm one mother who has raised her boy to be a fighter. I have two sons. Some day I'm sure this one is going to be the world's heavyweight champion. I've dreamed all my life that this will come about, and I know it will."

Round two ends with the crowd booing her son for rough tactics.

"Why doesn't Slattery quit dancing and fight?" complains me. "He's in there to stay the limit—I don't blame Billy for roughing him up a bit."

The second, third and fourth rounds slip by, Ma looking on calmly.

Stribling takes some punishment in the sixth.

He just looks over Slattery's shoulder at Ma and winks.

Ma is asked if the punishment her son is getting makes her flinch.

"Of course not," she replies. "Why, I could bear that myself."

Ma settles back in her chair, relaxes. The 18,000 fans are in an uproar. People are shouting, a woman or two half hysterical nearby as the seventh, eighth and ninth rounds are reeled off. Everybody excited, it seems, but Ma.

She's Lady-Like Fan.

No, she never yells at a fight. Unlady-like, for one thing, she says in her soft southern drawl. Why get agitated? Big crowd, isn't it? New York is having nice weather, don't you think? The pretty girl next to her? Oh, that Billy's bride, the former Clara Virginia Kinney of Macon, Ga. Oh yes, she approves of Billy fighting; that was understood before they were married.

Round ten! Fast and furious, both boys giving all they have left. Then the bell. The fight's over. Then—

"The winner," shouted the announcer—"Stribling."

Young Stribling, a little battered, looks down at Ma and winks.

"What did I tell you about that wink?" Ma says in a matter-of-fact tone as she waits for "her boy" to crawl back through the ropes and kiss her.

AGRICULTURE NORMAL AFTER WAR EXPANSION

Census Figures Show Reduction in Farms Operated.

POULTRY DEMAND

Increase in Truck Average Near Large Cities in East.

WASHINGTON.—Indicating that agriculture in America is gradually returning to normal from the war-time expansion, Bureau of Census figures show that there was a reduction of 75,735 in the number of farms operated in 1925, as compared to 1920, bringing the total January 1, to 6,372,263.

Farms under cultivation number practically the same as in 1910.

Factors contributing to the reduction were given by an official census bureau statements as follows:

(1) Ravages of the boll weevil in some of the cotton states.

(2) Migration of negro farm workers north.

(3) A succession of dry seasons in parts of the Northwest.

(4) Consolidation of farms.

(5) General recession from the war-time expansion in agriculture, which still persisted in 1920.

Farms Decrease.

"The net decrease of 1.2 per cent in the number of farmers is a result of considerable drops in some sections of the country, particularly offset by increases in other districts," the bureau said.

"Increases have resulted from the opening up of new lands in part of the West; from the subdivision of ranches and large farms for more intensive operation and from the development of orchards and truck and poultry farms.

"The establishment of small truck and poultry farms, especially near the cities, accounts for most of the increase shown for New England and some other sections of the East."

Texas, by reason of its enormous area, exceeded all other states in the number of farms with a total of 466,195. Other states ranged as follows:

Rank of States.

North Carolina, 283,492; Missouri, 260,484; Kentucky, 258,511; Mississipi, 257,227; Tennessee, 252,669; Ohio 244,702.

Rhode Island with 3,911 farms, and Nevada with 3,913, were at the bottom, as agriculturists.

In the District of Columbia were 139 farms.

Bolivar county, Mississippi, with 12,873 farms, took the national title among counties of the country. Los Angeles county, California, had 12,389 farms; Fresno county, California, 10,463, and Lancaster county, Pennsylvania, 11,457.

A decrease in the number of farms in the South, as compared to the last census in 1920, was shown in Alabama, Arkansas, Georgia, Tennessee, Mississipi and South Carolina, while the number in Florida, North Carolina and Texas was higher.

In the Middle West farms decreased in numbers in North Dakota, Illinois, Indiana, Michigan, Ohio, and Missouri; Iowa and Kansas remained the same as in 1920, while Nebraska, Minnesota, South Dakota and Wisconsin gained.

THREE WOMEN IN CONGRESS SCORE CRITICS

"Feminine Bloc" do Not Approve New Indoor Sport.

HIT FUN-MAKERS

Mesdames Kahn, Norton And Rogers Give Their Views.

WASHINGTON, Mar. 23.—The fulsome criticism of congress which is now apparently a popular pastime throughout the country, finds no echo of sympathy from the three women who comprise the "feminine bloc" in the house of representatives.

On the heels of a resolution through which Representative Thomas, D.) Okla., seeks to have congress investigate itself and see if there is any foundation for the criticism, came strong commendation of the harried legislators today from Representatives Florence P. Kahn, (R.) California; Mary T. Norton, (D.) New Jersey, and Edith Nourse Rogers, (R.) Massachusetts.

"I am shocked," said Thomas, "when I am forced to take notice of some of the teachings, admissions and tendencies I hear and see upon every hand. Through books, magazines, newspapers, editorials, sermons, lectures and addresses, doctrines are being broadcast which constitute a mass indictment of congress, an impeachment of its membership and a challenge of the ability, patriotism and integrity of the representatives of the people."

All this might indicate that something is wrong with congress.

"No," chorus the women.

"I am sick and tired of hearing people make fun of congress," said Mrs. Kahn. "It seems to be the new indoor sport which is unfortunate. Such an attitude makes for contempt of congress and ultimately for contempt of law.

"Nowhere will one find a more hard-working set of men than in the house of representatives. They make personal sacrifices to come here, like the scientists who works works for practically nothing because he loves his work."

Mrs. Norton has, if anything, even stronger views on the subject. She said:

"The man or woman who criticizes the government and has nothing constructive to offer in its place, is not worthy of the great honor of being an American citizen.

"Criticism of congress as carried on today is wrong. When laws are passed that people disapprove of, it is their own fault, in the final analysis. The government is what the people themselves make it."

Mrs. Rogers thought she had not been in congress long enough to pass judgment but on the whole believed it was composed of a fine body of men.

"They really treat a woman much better than they treat one another," said Mrs. Rogers. "I never feel like an outsider. One is greatly impressed with the courtesy of the men, who never act as though we were in the way."

The fruit-fly and heavy rains have caused great damage to grain crops in Lithuana during the past winter.

Much road construction work is being done in Mexico.

"SHE WAS JUST A SAILOR'S SWEETHEART" played on Victor Record at DAVIS BURKHAM & TYLER'S MUSIC STORE. Hear it. On reverse side of this record TED WEEMS and HIS ORCHESTRA plays "THE DAY THAT I MET YOU."

Average American In 1925 Devoured 154 Pounds of Meat

Country Produced 17,956,000,000 Pounds of Beef, Veal, Mutton and Pork, and Used 2,224,000,000 Pounds of Lard.

WASHINGTON—America is still one of the greatest meat-eating nations of the world.

Despite a slight falling off last year, believed caused by an increased number of vegetarians, the country produced in 1925 the enormous total of 17,956,000,000 pounds of beef, veal, mutton and lamb, and pork. For good measure, Americans used 2,224,000,000 pounds of lard.

These figures were compiled by the department of agriculture.

Total beef consumed reached the highest point on record, the per capita consumption being 63.1 pounds, with a total of 7,146,000,000 pounds produced.

The total per capita consumption of all meats was 154.3 pounds.

Total Consumption Less.

While the total meat consumption was lower than for the two years immediately preceding, it was slightly higher than the average for the last five years. Decreased pork consumption, as compared with the unusually high years of 1924 and 1923, was largely responsible for the drop in the total.

The consumption of mutton and lamb, relatively low in the United States, has remained at about the same level for the last five years. Per capita consumption of veal, however, has shown a steady rise.

Production of dressed veal in 1925 reached the record total of 1,001,000,000 pounds, 70,000,000 pounds greater than in 1924. Production of mutton and lamb increased by 10,000,000 pounds. In this case the total of 599,000,000 pounds was the highest since 1921.

Within recent years there has been little foreign trade either in veal or mutton and lamb, and consequently in these classes the consumption practically corresponds to the production.

The reduction of more than 11,000,000 in the swine slaughtered in 1925 accounted for the considerable decrease in the supply of pork and lard. Hog values, as a result, were about 50 per cent higher than in 1924.

Although exports in 1925 fell off by 25 per cent for pork and 27 per cent for lard, the year's trade was nevertheless quite sizable, amounting to 549,000,000 pounds of pork and 719,000,000 pounds of lard. These totals are larger by a substantial margin than the average pre-war exports.

REAL OLD TIME SPELLING BEE CROWDS CHARLESTON OUT OF IOWA

DES MOINES, Ia. — The old-fashioned spelling bee is Iowa's newest indoor sport.

The Charleston has been crowded out of Iowan parlors while training is on for a big spelling match. Spelling "coaches" are becoming the vogue.

Dictionaries with frayed edges from the hey-day of the cross-word puzzle craze are now in danger of becoming total wrecks.

Seventy-nine of the 99 counties in the state are enlisted in a state-wide spelling contest, with 251,000 participants. They range all the way from 10 to three-score-and-ten in age and include all avocations from farmer to manufacturer.

The state-wide contest revolves around more than 5,000 schools in the state, but more than one meeting of a bridge club has been turned into a spelling contest.

The younger generation is going into the game hard. A bunch of school pupils stepped out near Adel and won from the adults of the community. At Nashua business men staged a comeback for the older generation by taking the honors at a contest held in the town opera house.

Iowa is learning to spell.

Births	710,979

OUCH! BACKACHE! RUB LUMBAGO AWAY

When your back is sore and lame or lumbago, sciatica or rheumatism has you stiffened up, don't suffer! Get a 35 cent bottle of old, honest St. Jacobs Oil at any drug store, pour a little in your hand and rub it right on your aching back, and the soreness and lameness is gone.

In use for 65 years, this soothing, penetrating oil takes the pain right out, and ends the misery. It is absolutely harmless and doesn't burn the skin.

PROMINENT MEN O. K. MT. UNION

Endorse Campaign for $2,000,000 Endowment Fund.

ALLIANCE, O., March 16.—On the eve of the national campaign for $2,000,000 Mount Union college proposes to launch the night of April 6, men prominent in national and state affairs have come out with enthusiastic endorsement of the big undertaking. United States senators, the governor of the state, college presidents, churchmen, scientists and others whose opinions are widely recognized, have praised the distinguished record of Mount Union college and expressed confidence in the final outcome of the coast-to-coast campaign.

Governor Donahey was among the first to give the movement his official endorsement. "The accomplishments of Mount Union college, as attested by its influence generally as well as a splendid alumni, are unsurpassed by like institutions anywhere. With bigger and better facilities its great usefulness will increase accordingly and we will marvel still more at its handiwork. Nothing could be more meritorious and I wish the campaign every possible success."

Newton D. Baker, former secretary of war, is also behind the big campaign for $2,000,000. "I do not know enough to be dogmatic about such a thing," said Mr. Baker, "but I am prepared to believe a dollar given to Mount Union produces as much education and bestows it as worthily as a dollar given to any college I know."

Both U. S. Senators Simeon D. Fess and Frank B. Willis have wholeheartedly endorsed the Ohio institution.

Canada's foreign trade during January was the largest for that month since 1921.

3 Things to Take Home! Attention, Men Only!

The first is a cheerful, happy smile and a sweet disposition. This assures you a warm welcome. In order to scatter this properly in the family, a brick, or 2 bricks, or 3 bricks—in fact, any number of bricks of Rieck's Ice Cream should nestle cosily under your arm. In the left-hand bosom pocket of your coat there should snuggle from 2 to 4 of our good Cigars. This prescription used freely promotes contentment, a splendid home life, and enlarges the joys of living.

Young Onions and Kodaks!

They both spring up in the spring tra la! We mention this not because you didn't KNOW it but because you may have FORGOTTEN it! And we have EVERY SIZE film you care to mention and PLENTY of Kodaks, too! Assorted prices!

Prescriptions!

Never forget that we druggists are partners of the DOCTOR. At NO TIME are we in ANY sense competitors. For simple, little ailments, remedies for which most of us know, the drug store is many times all that is needed, but when the trouble is complicated, certainly we want the opportunity to give you the medicine the Doctor PRESCRIBES — fill his PRESCRIPTION, in other words. And we are proud of our work!

Police and Fountain News!

There's no reason why a Lime Frappe
Can't be taken most every day;
For they cool your throat and calm the mind,
And to your stomach they're very kind.
We've found this true for years and years
In spite of many people's fears;
So you just try one some day soon
And put yourself in perfect tune.

How Much Do You Know About Easter?

Did you know that the Easter celebration in the 10th Century lasted 8 days? That slaves received their freedom at that time? That the poor were feasted in the churches? That up until the 16th Century, sports, dances and farcical exhibitions, in which at times the clergy joined, were the order of Easter Day? That colored eggs are used not only by Christians but by Persians at their Solar New Year (March) and by the Jews at their Feast of the Passover?

Apart from Easter's purely religious significance in this country and the very natural solemnity of the occasion, Americans make the day one where gaily colored NEW raiment, happy new bonnets and (if the weather be propitious), the "Easter Parade" are strongly in evidence.

In other words, we all sorta like to brush off a lot of griefs, troubles, mistakes and other mental dust we've collected and start out again all frizzed up for a NEW set of adventures—in the spring!

And you'll probably be real pleased at some of the things a store like ours can contribue to this jaunt of yours.

John Carnahan

Shorty Says:

So far as I can see, there's no GOOD reason for me to be here on this page at this particular time with this spyglass. The boss expects me to always ring in something about how good his store is but why he got me this magnifying glass to strut around with is applesauce, so far as I can judge. So if it's all right with YOU folks, I'll just not bother you any this week but will try to think up something cute for the boss NEXT week.

Food Sale!

When you pass our store on Sixth Street Saturday glance in at our center window and see if there is not something there that you would be glad to tell the world that your wife made it or tell your husband that you made it. And come early for such goods that are going to be on sale Saturday are liable to move out quickly.

Easter Is Coming!

At no other time in the year is a woman's apparel of LARGER importance than around EASTER. And things like the CORRECT perfume, the proper shade of rouge, and the healthy glisten that our hair preparations give are only a few of the items we have for sale and we almost forgot to say it is just the right time to get one of those dainty DEVILbiss perfumizers.

A Glistening Crown!

Dry, brittly hair ain't nuthin' to write home about! Especially when it's a bit thin on the sides or top. And STIM used a couple of days will put real VIGOR and Beauty in it and we have it on special sale Saturday for 89c.

Kyanize!

These are the easily applied paints and varnishes that you probably have heard of and that your neighbor probably has used. Certainly is surprising how much a little Kyanize can brighten up a home.

Wild, Wooly Wimmen!

They are arming EVERYWHERE! Strange, stirring, wild "yearns" are agitating the bosoms of womenkind and their soft, soulful eyes are taking on the BATTLE GLEAM! Men are taking to cover seeking shelter where they may! Even the children are agitated! For SPRING HOUSECLEANING is upon the face of the earth and, thank goodness, we sure got MOST EVERYTHING HERE in the way of AMMUNITION! Ask any of our clerks about it!

TASTES 15,864 CANS OF CORN

Delay in South Bend, Ind., Trial is Necessary.

SOUTH BEND, Ind.—The case of the United States of America vs 661 cases of twenty-four cans each, of canned corn, trial of which is expected to take up several weeks in the court of Federal Judge Thomas W. Slick, has been postponed to June.

Each can will have a separate trial, the court decided, the charges being that the corn is preserved with saccharine which is in violation of the Pure Food Act.

The delay was made necessary by the work involved in taking samples from each can and having it analyzed. The corn was shipped here by a canning concern in New Hartford, N. Y.

Afghanistan Ruler Takes Advanced Step For Higher Education

KANDAHAR, Afghanistan — A notable step forward in the education of the masses in Afghanistan has been taken by the Amir, Amanullah Khan. Decrees issued by him virtually provide for the compulsory education of Afghans.

He has ordered the Persian language, which is the medium of instruction in the schools here, to be replaced by the language of Afghanistan.

Children are to attend school at an early age, and any parents failing to send their children to school will be fined five rupees.

RICH GOLDEN BUTTER OF DELIGHTFUL FLAVOR!

THE GREAT ATLANTIC & PACIFIC TEA CO.

ROCHESTER, N. Y., March 26.—Brigadier General Thomas Ward, retired, is dead at his home here today at the age of 87. He was the oldest living graduate of West Point and had seen long service in the United States army. Burial will be in Oswego, N. Y.

No more RHEUMATISM

IT'S GONE! That awful agony! Rheumatism can't stand the rich, red blood that S. S. S. helps Nature build.

But rheumatism will bring pain and misery to your joints and muscles just as long as you are without plenty of rich, red blood in your system.

It's the red-blood-cells that S. S. S. helps Nature build that drive out of your system the impurities that cause rheumatism. And until you do build up your blood to where it is pure and rich and red, you simply can't get rid of rheumatism.

And S. S. S. is the thing. Red blood conquers rheumatism. Everybody knows that.

S. S. S. means millions of red-blood-cells—means health all over. No more rheumatism. Nights of rest—days of joy, filled with the happiness of accomplishment — made possible by a body brimful of red blooded life, energy and vitality.

That's what the end of rheumatism means—that's what S. S. S. brings to you. Get S. S. S. from your druggist. The larger bottle is more economical.

Irene Rich Stars In "Compromise," at American Theatre

If you enjoy the dramatic picturization of a realistic and powerful story, then you must not miss "Compromise," starring beautiful Irene Rich which opened yesterday at the American theatre.

Her latest characterization of Joan Trevore finds Miss Rich at her best.

The producers have certainly been most generous in their choice of a supporting cast, which includes Clive Brook, a most plausible hero, and little Pauline Garon, as Joan's selfish half-sister.

Louise Fazenda is funnier than ever—which is real praise—as Hilda, the loyal Swedish maid.

Alan Crosland has retained all the drama of Jay Gelzer's original story, which was adapted to the screen by E. T. Lowe, Jr., with the result that "Compromise" is a thoroughly enjoyable and realistic screen production.

$1,500 NEEDED FOR CHASSIS

Bond Issue Question Will be Submitted to Solicitor.

Unless the Kiwanis club of Lisbon gives its aid toward the raising of a fund of about $1,500 for the purchase of a chassis for a new fire truck, council of Lisbon will probably place the proposition before Solicitor William B. Moore for his opinion whether or not the corporation is in a position to issue bonds for such purposes.

"We have not given up hope in putting the public subscription over," declared Mayor Clark. "The proposition is now being discussed by the Kiwanis club, and as soon as we hear what action has been taken by that body we will then know what further step can be taken. If possible, we may have a bond issue for this purpose, but this question will have to be referred to Solicitor Moore."

Thin Run-Down People Gain Needed Weight

Men and women whose natural strength doesn't equal the demands of everyday life—whose every effort is a drag—should take Coco Cod to build up lagging strength and energy—to add good, healthy weight, to give them a new lease on life and happiness.

Coco Cod is nature's effective tonic and strength-builder, just pure cod liver oil, with the health vitamins from eggs, yeast, spinach and lettuce—flavored with cocoa to make it pleasant to take.

Coco Cod is not merely a temporary stimulant, it is a nutritive system-builder of unequalled effectiveness. Harry S. Orr, Cincinnati, writes: "I was in a run-down condition and took three bottles of Coco Cod, which helped me very much—so much that I have advised friends to take it, and they did so with good results."

Physicians everywhere recommend Coco Cod for convalescents, for nursing or over-taxed mothers, for its wonderful results in the treatment of anemia, malnutrition, or weak, underweight conditions in young or old. Begin today—take Coco Cod for health. All druggists.—Advertisement.

Haskin's Letter

the Veterans' Bureau says 117,000 of those have been rehabilitated.

That does not mean, however, that 117,000 are today working as self-supporting citizens at the occupations for which they were trained. Many are in other occupations, some are back in hospitals, a few have died. Most of them are receiving some amount of compensation pay from the government. Just how many have actually been restored to a complete state of independent self-support is not known. Many have been, annd for them the great experiment has been a wonderful success. Some have found it only a sad disappointment.

The cost of the experiment is difficult to calculate because the government changed its agency for the work in the middle of the task. The federal board for vocational education started it. The task was later given to the United States veterans' bureau. A rough estimate is that $500,000,000 has been spent for veterans' rehabilitation. An equally rough guess is that 10,000 men have been restored to reasonable health and economic indebtedness. On that basis it has cost $5,000 for each human career that has been saved from dependency and restored to self-support.

Probably a close and complete analysis would make the cost higher, but even twice that much spent to turn a young man from a human wreck destined only for hospitals, asylums, and pension rolls, into a self-sufficient citizen, would not be a bad investment. He will produce a good deal more than that value during a useful life, and his restoration form dependency will be a material saving to society, which otherwise would probably have to support him.

Thus despite all wasteful mistakes and all heart-breaks, the vocational rehabilitation experiment has not been wholly a failure. Volumes have been written about the sensational success in some cases, and the pitiful blunders in others. The blind man who became a successful lawyer, the armless man who operates a special typewriter at great speed, the shell-shocked minister who found rest for war-torn nerves as a shoemaker, the East Side New York lad who is a happy, successful poultry farmer—these and many other cases have been recited to show success.

Many Changed Their Objectives.

The futile effort to make doctors out of boys with no primary education, or watch-makers from young men whose brawny arms were designed for black-smithing, is part of the tale of failure. More than half of the men went through training courses changed their objectives after they started. Thousands jumped blindly into courses for auto salesmen because they had never owned an automobile. Hundreds were compelled to start training to be shoemakers because the government had set up a shoe-making school. Later they changed courses to something for which they were fitted by nature and experience.

The training pay rate was $100 per month, and married men received additional allowances. Undoubtedly many men went into training simply because it provided a living for the moment. If they did not take their work seriosly, they had to be weeded out. It was noticeable that when congress increased the married man's allowance by $35 per month there was quite a wave of matrimony around the training schools. But on the whole, the trainees have been sincere, and they have bungled no more than the government bungled in its great welfare experiment.

A real hardship will result for a number of present trainees if their courses terminate as the law now provides. Some men in training to be farmers were encouraged to buy land on the installment plan. They did this hoping their training allowance would enable them to get it cultivated to a profitable basis. Where these men have not got their land cleared, they may lose it when training pay stops.

Some of the men in universities, studying to be lawyers and doctors and the like, have one or two years' work ahead before they can win degrees and start practicing their professions. Congress is being asked to make some extension of time possible for these cases. Otherwise the experiment is about complete.

Perhaps in five years a survey of the economic status of the trainees will actually prove whether or not Uncle Sam reached his object when he undertook to bring up a family of his disabled defenders, and make self-sufficient citizens out of them. Right now he says he has trained 117,000 and found jobs for them, and that most of them are holding down the jobs and making good, and he is working on 12,000 more. It has been his greatest experiment in helping human kind.

the Veterans' Bureau says 117,000 of those have been rehabilitated.

That does not mean, however, that 117,000 are today working as self-supporting citizens at the occupations for which they were trained. Many are in other occupations, some are back in hospitals, a few have died. Most of them are receiving some amount of compensation pay from the government. Eve's Two Lovers

by EDGAR POE NORRIS

THE STORY UP TO DATE.

EVE MACLURIE, young, beautiful, thrifty, passionately satisfied with life, loved both her employer, JOHN INGATE, 30, president of John Ingate's Sons, Inc., one of the largest firms in Central City, and CLAY WALES, an employe of the Ingate concern. She rejected John to marry Clay because she believed that the latter, weak, irresponsible, fiercely jealous, needed her more. Once they were wed, however, she had her doubts about the wisdom of her choice.

On their honeymoon in Chicago, while enjoying country club guest privileges through the courtesy of John Ingate, they met JOCELYN JOHNSTONE, violet-eyed and mysterious, and her questionable escort, REGGIE WHITE. When John Ingate appeared in Chicago unexpectedly, he met Miss Johnstone through Clay and Eve, and was immediately infatuated with her, it seemed to them.

When the honeymooners returned to Central City, they went to Clay's mother's house with the intention of staying only a few days. Eve had won Clay over to her plan to continue to work as John Ingate's secretary, and her first act, once their baggage was deposited at the Wales' bungalow, was to go down to the plant. She found that Mary Sullivan had taken her place in the office, that John's manner toward her had changed. Heart-broken, she decided to look elsewhere for work, but kept the information from Clay.

Now go on with the story:

THIRTY-ONE.

There was no doubt in Eve's mind then that she would not find work. But as she lay curled up in Clay's arms in the drab room in the Wales bungalow, she had no mind for the sweet nonsense he was declaring; she was distressed at the thought of looking around for work so soon after her marriage. What a morsel for Mary Sullivan! And how could she explain to a curious prospective employer her reason for leaving John Ingate's employ?

She was jarred out of her depressing speculations by Clay's question: "I suppose you will be going over to see your mother soon?"

"Yes. . . . Yes." She looked through him.

Puzzled, Clay waited, watching.

"Yes, I thought we could drop in there on our way to look for rooms."

"Why—I thought you'd want to go alone."

"No—not necessarily." Her mind was not yet wholly upon what they were discussing.

Clay was disturbed by that expression in her eyes. "What's the matter, honey?"

"Nothing, dear, nothing." She got up from his knees. "Let's go."

Mrs. Wales hurried int othe hall as they descended the stairs. "I want you two to have supper here tonight—dinner, I mean. Mr. Wales, you know—."

Clay glanced at Eve questioningly.

"That will be very nice, Mrs. Wales. Only don't go to very much trouble. And I'll be in later, if there is anything I can do—?"

"No, I'll manage." She directed herself to Clay as he went on toward the door, with a sort of triumphant tone, "We'll eat in the dining room." He smiled back at her.

They went downtown on a street car. "Be nice when we have a Ford coupe," Clay observed.

"Yes." Eve did not want to repeat then her opposition to expenditure of any part of their restricted income upon an automobile. She was thinking of other things.

Mrs. MacLurie was having her afternoon nap when the newlyweds arrived. Eve's brother, Bruce, young, impetuous, looked Clay over challengingly as he admitted them. Well, Sis, you sure pulled a surprise."

Eve kissed him, and put Bruce's hand into Clay's. "I'm sorry you weren't here to attend our wedding, Bruce."

"What was the all-fired rush?" her brother asked.

Eve colored slightly, remembering her own apprehension over how the hurry attending her marriage would be interpreted.

"Oh, just so much in love that we couldn't wait." She patted his cheek affectionately. "Where is mother?"

"Having her beauty sleep."

"I hate to disturb her."

"Don't then," said Bruce, indifferently falling into a chair. It was plain he did not like Clay Wales.

His sister regarded him with annoyance. Was Bruce trying to be nasty, or was he just reflecting her mother's attitude? Without replying she left the men alone and went upstairs.

"Well, now that you're married, how do you like it?" Bruce asked, meeting Clay's eyes in such a way that the latter dropped his glance.

"Huh. We haven't got that far yet; we're still on our honeymoon."

"Huh!" Bruce lapsed into silence. He both loved and hated his sister—they had been inseparable playmates and relentless enemies since childhood—and he had been furious when he came home from a trip (he was a traveling salesman) to find that Eve had married "that egg."

This period was painful to Clay. He could not help realizing that with at least one member of the MacLurie family, and possibly all but one, he was not very popular. He fumbled with his hands and got out his cigarettes. But he dared not light one. He had long since been made familiar with Mrs. MacLurie's aversion to the odor of tobacco smoke.

Eve came back down the stairs in 10 or 15 minutes, wearing an expression that made Clay uncomfortable. He was glad to escape into the open air with her. "How is everything?"

"Mother isn't feeling very well. Poor dear is just about worn out. Dad and Bruce make a world of work for her, and she isn't very strong. And now there's no one to help her."

"I'm so sorry," Clay felt called on to say.

Eve took two of his fingers in her warm, silky paw and they set forth in search of that little love nest which is the dream of all newly married couples.

They started at a not very pretentious apartment building in Grand avenue. They had decided not to apply through an agency yet, since Eve had the idea they might get a place cheaper by direct bargaining, inasmuch as the landlord would be saved an agency commission.

"Uh hundred and fifty dollars if you haven't no children," the janitor at this Grand avenue place announced.

Eve looked around the suite disheartened. One hundred and fifty dollars a month for three rooms, kitchenette and bath! What might they expect to get and where would they have to go to get a place to live within their means?

Their next several calls were no more encouraging. Grand avenue and Walnut street apartment districts evidently were not for them.

"Such outrageous prices," Eve murmured.

"We could take that last place. Only a hundred dollars and pretty nice."

"But, dear," she replied, irritated by his lack of foresight, "don't you know we can't spend everything for rent?"

She suddenly became weary of this search. It had to go on, and, she now realized more than ever, she must find work.

MYSTERY CASE AT MANSFIELD

Today

Mexico's Religious War.
Here's a Prophetess.
Few Harvard Children.
The Satanic Order.

By ARTHUR BRISBANE

(The opinions expressed in this column are strictly those of Mr. Brisbane and not necessarily in consonance with the policies of The Review-Tribune.)

Copyright, 1926, by the Star Co.

THE Catholic church does not intend to yield to the new constitution of Mexico without a struggle. A pastoral letter by Bishop Herrera Y. Pina, of Monterey, instructs Catholic priests and worshipers "to offer passive resistance to the government's effort to enforce the sections of the constitution relating to religion."

PRIESTS are ordered "not to fulfill the constitutional requirements, and to abandon their churches rather than obey other than ecclesiastical authority."

Worshipers are told "to organize a peaceful movement of opposition."

Mexico is in the throes of a real and serious religious war, one that may well cause anxiety.

IF YOU believe in modern prophecy study the skies on Easter. Johanna Leinhart, a Bern[illegible] hotess, says God will be[illegible] affairs at Easter. Ger[illegible] come out ahead of all nations and as a sign there will be sunshine in Germany from Palm Sunday to Good Friday, with fierce storms, rain, hail, snow in all other countries.

When the world recovers from this surprise Johanna will reveal all the secrets of life, death and the resurrection.

STATISTICS show that Harvard graduates when they marry have few children, many of them no children.

The number of childless Harvard marriages increases steadily and the number of homes where there are children diminishes steadily.

This doesnt' mean that education reduces fertility. It means that the prosperous class are provided with birth control information, forbidden to the poor.

THE authorities of Oakland are investigating "The Satanic Order of Lucifer," suspected of including human sacrifices in its ritual. Macario Timon, a leader in the order, was found with his throat cut. That's shocking; perhaps it is true.

But so many centuries back human sacrifice was part of every religion of any consequence. As recently as in Old Testament days Abraham took it quite for granted that he should be ordered to sacrifice his son. He would undoubtedly have cut the throat of his son, Isaac, and offered him as a burnt offering had not a substitute been miraculously provided.

Here has been progress.

TWO young ladies in Palm Beach, carrying bathing suits over their shoulders, walked along in wet kimonos, not fastened too securely. Arrested, they forfeited their bail and police say it is dreadful because these young ladies, who gave false names, were both socially prominent.

For a real democracy, this country pays considerable attention to "social prominence." It makes even nakedness worse.

IN WALL STREET more excitement yesterday, another slaughter of the lambs. Stocks that dropped most violently were those in which the innocent lambs had been gambling most violently.

The stocks that fell down are not

MIDLAND GIRL CONVICTED AT BEAVER AFTER WEEK'S TRIAL

Mrs. Mary D. Camwell, 25, Faces Prison Term.

DENIED CHARGES

Court Probably Will Pass Sentence Next Week.

Mrs. Mary D. Camwell, pretty 25-year-old bank clerk of the Midland Savings and Trust company, Midland, was found guilty on two indictments charging her with the embezzlement of $3,000 in school savings deposits by a jury in the Beaver county common pleas court, at Beaver, yesterday afternoon.

She will be sentenced on Saturday, April 3, unless granted a new trial. Penalty for conviction is a prison term of not less than one year.

Shows No Emotion.

The jury of seven women and five men, in whose hands the fate of the woman rested, deliberated about three hours before reaching a verdict.

Mrs. Camwell showed no emotion when the jury reported, keeping her eyes fixed on Clerk of Courts Jacob Marshall as the verdict was read. She turned and conversed with members of her family who sat near her after the jury's finding was announced.

The trial of Mrs. Camwell, who had been employed in the Midland bank for about a year, was one of the most sensational in the Beaver county common pleas court for several years. The trial started last Thursday, requiring approximately one week.

The defense rested Wednesday afternoon after character witnesses had been examined. Arguments of both the prosecution and the defense were made Wednesday afternoon after which court adjourned. Attorney D. A. Nelson, who, with ex-Judge R. F. Holt, was counsel for the defendant, asked that Mrs. Camwell be acquitted, declaring that the commonwealth had failed to substantiate its charges of embezzlement.

District Attorney F. G. Moorhead, who led the prosecution, based his argument on the findings of W. C. Perry, state banking examiner, who discovered the shortage in the school savings accounts and signed the affidavits which caused the clerk's arrest.

Forgery Count Not Pressed

The charge of Judge William A. McConnell, who presided at the trial, delivered after court reopened Thursday morning, required approximately two hours. He reviewed the testimony and explained the law. Several boxes of bank records and exhibits

IRVIN S. COBB IS TEETOTALLER

NEW YORK, March 26.—Irvin S. Cobb, writer and humorist, was on record today by his own testimony, as a 100 per cent teetotaller.

Cobb was called before the federal grand jury to testify concerning the famous "bathtub" party given at the theatre of Earl Carroll, Broadway producer. He told newspapermen afterwards that he did not see any "liquor" served at the party nor any signs of drunkenness. He said he himself had not taken a "drink" in four years.

NEW MUNICIPAL BUILDING NEED CITED AT MEET

[illegible]mittee is Named List Sites and Cost.

50 A[illegible] SESSION

M[illegible] Outlines Plan to Sell Unused Property.

That East Liverpool needs a new municipal building and that the question of a site and financing is a matter of secondary consideration, is opinion of approximately 50 citizens, representing civic, fraternal, service and social organizations, who attended a mass meeting in municipal court headquarters, Fourth and Market streets, last evening.

Little was accomplished to ascertain sentiment. A motion offered by Prosecuting Attorney Robert M. Brookes, authorizing the appointment of a committee from city council to list sites and their cost, was unanimously adopted.

"I believe that some good will come of this gathering," said N. P. Kerr, president of council, who sent out the call for the meeting. "Even if we don't get a new city hall, this meeting will have done some good. Council is willing to provide a city building if the people want it."

Prosecutor Brookes' Suggestion.

Kerr, at the opening of the session, said the city was "not progressive enough." He pointed out that the municipality owns thousands of dollars worth of idle property, which might be turned into cash and the money used for an improvement which is badly needed—a city hall.

"A new city hall would give the city more prestige," he declared. "The structure at the corner of third and Market street is a disgrace. A market house is out of the question for East Liverpool. The $40,000 in bonds issued for a market house a few years ago is eating itself up in interest.

Y. & O. Interurban Service Is Crippled By Landslide

No Cars Operate for Four Hours as Result of Slip Near Westfield.

Traffic over the Youngstown & Ohio River railroad, between East Liverpool and Salem, was crippled for more than four hours today by a landslide near Westfield, two miles north of here.

The slip, which completely covered the track was discovered by the crew of the first car which was due here at 6:20 o'clock this morning. The motorman saw the obstruction in time to avert a crash.

Through arrangements made with The Steubenville, East Liverpool & Beaver Valley Traction company, one of the double truck center-entrance city cars was operated from the Diamond to the scene of the slide at 7:20 and 8:20 o'clock, and passengers were transferred to Y. & O. cars on the other end.

Tracks were cleared by a Leetonia crew of laborers shortly before 10 o'clock, when regular service was restored.

"CANDY KID" BANDIT WILL UNSEAL HIS LIPS FOR WIFE'S FREEDOM

Richard R. Whittemore Promises Revelations That Will "Startle New York" if Police Free "Tiger Girl."

NEW YORK, Mar. 26.—The fate of Margaret Whittemore, "The Tiger Girl," hangs today upon the word of her bandit leader husband, Richard Reese Whittemore, who has promised the authorities he will unseal his lips for love of her.

She is now in jail, one of the nine members of the Whittemore robber and murder gang under arrest.

His wife's freedom is the price the "Candy Kid" puts upon revelations he said would "startle New York." His story, if told, is expected to lay bare the whole system of banditry by which the "night club gang" were able to steal nearly $1,000,000 in two years without a single hold-up going awry.

District Attorney Joab H. Banton said this morning he would free pretty, young Mrs. Whittemore if her husband "comes clean" with his story.

The authorities are convinced that if Whittemore talks they will be able to arrest the "higher-ups" who furnished the band with information about the "easy jobs" and then purchased the loot, often making part payments in advance.

Gang Worked Like Grid Team.

Several mysterious murders and disappearance of witnesses may also be cleared up.

Six murders already are laid to the Whittemore gang by the authorities.

Banton already has the confessions

OHIO CITIES RECALL HORROR OF 1913 FLOOD

Thirteen Years Ago Dayton and Zanesville Were Hit.

BRIDGES WRECKED

Millions of Dollars of Damage Was Wrought.

ZANESVILLE, March 26.—Thirteen years ago today every bridge across the Muskingum river between Zanesville and Marietta was washed out by the memorable flood of 1913 and every bridge between Zanesville and Newark on the Licking river was also destroyed. Zanesville, the "city of bridges," had but two bridges standing when the flood waters died down—the historic "Y" and Fifth street bridge.

Unlike the flood experiences of other Ohio cities, only two lives were lost here, notwithstanding two-thirds of the incorporated area of the city was under water from two to 20 feet deep. Zanesville suffered an enormous financial loss, estimates varying between $12,000,000 and $15,000,000.

Tamed and Chastened River.

DAYTON, O., March 26.—A tamed and chastened river flows through Dayton today on the thirteenth anniversary of the great flood. Guided by the works of man, watched day and night by careful workers, the great Miami river rises and falls without causing fear in the hearts of thousands of citizens whose homes line its banks.

The construction of the Miami conservancy district, costing thirty millions of dollars, is completed. The puffing engines and straining trucks have gone from the riverside and the dam sites, but still in every town and hamlet throughout the length of the Miami and Mad river valleys are men ready to dash at a moment's notice to avoid the catastrophe which 13 years ago struck the state.

WIFE RETAINS LAWYER AFTER DISAPPEARANCE OF HER SPOUSE

Prosecuting Attorney Admits Investigation is Under Way.

Woman Withdrew $800 of Man's Savings From Bank.

MANSFIELD, March. 26. — Clark Baker, 40, proprietor of the North Star dance hall, five miles north of Mansfield, has been missing since the night of March 10, County Prosecutor George H. Blecker said today when he announced that he and Sheriff Sells are investigating the mysterious case.

Baker's wife reported her husband's disappearance on March 22, when she told the story to her mother-in-law at Shelby who in turn informed the police.

Find Typewriter in House.

According to information obtained by local authorities, Baker came home from his work as a carpenter on the night of March 10 and after eating a heavy supper complained of feeling ill. His wife says she doctored him but retired at 10:30 o'clock, leaving him sitting up. That was the last she saw of him. Two days later she received a letter, typewritten, even to the signature, purporting to be from the husband, mailed in Mansfield at 3 o'clock March 12. The letter, which is withheld by the authorities, is said to tell the wife he is leaving and she can have all his money and property.

Sheriff Sells Tuesday found a typewriter in a closet at the Baker home, covered with a rug. Investigation disclosed that the letter was written on that typewriter. The wife says she found the typewriter locked in a trunk after her husband's disappearance.

Description of Missing Man.

The authorities have learned that Baker had $800 on deposit in a local bank. The wife drew the money out two days after the husband disappeared.

The missing man, who is described as being of medium height, smooth faced and of dark complexion, has a mother and sister in Shelby, and brothers in Cleveland, Indianapolis and Detroit.

The wife, whose maiden name was Frances Crum, has retained a local attorney, L. H. Beam.

780 PUPILS WILL COMPETE IN GRANT DISTRICT, W. VA., SCHOOL SPELLING BEE

Seven hundred and eighty pupils of 10 schools in Grant street, West Virginia, today began intensive preparation for the championship spelling bee to be held in the Newell school building, probably on April 30, when two representatives to compete in a match at Wheeling will be chosen.

R. L. Hoke, principal of the Newell high school and district superintendent, announced there would be a five-week period of "brushing up" among pupils of the various grades. Two from each room will be selected to enter the district finals.

The school chieftain made the following suggestions to contestants:

1—Have a perfect mark on the words assigned in the daily spelling lesson.

2—Be able to spell each word listed in the Review-Tribune by the Spelling Bee editor. One should get daily a copy of the newspaper during the period of the bee. These lists of demons and tongue-twisters will be largely drawn from in the final contest.

3—Contestants will study on their "own hook" from spelling books and other sources.

In keeping with plans for the event, lists of words, from which tongue-twisters for the finals will be taken will be published by The Review-Tribune, which will award cash prizes to the two winners in the district.

Soviet Takes Limit From Inheritances; Fix Graduated Taxes

MOSCOW — Proposing to abolish the present 10,000-rouble limit on inheritances, the Council of Peoples Commissars has taken another important step toward recognizing the right to own private property and to pass it on to one's descendants.

This is the second step backward from the original communist position. Until last year, upon the death of a man, all his property was confiscated by the state. Then it was decreed that inheritances would be permitted up to 10,000 roubles. Now the Council of Peoples Commissars has outlined a bill removing the limit, and substituting a graduated tax.

An interesting feature of the proposed inheritance tax is the fact that it takes into account the possibility of accumulating as much as 1,000,000 roubles. The highest level of the tax scale provides that from inheritances of more than 500,000 roubles, the state shall take 238,000 roubles from the first 500,000, and 90 per cent of the remainder.

Sad People Hoping for Relief From Their Suffering

You meet folks once in a while to whom your heart goes out in pity caused by their appearance. Sallow cheeks sunk to the bone, dull lusterless eyes, dragging footsteps, all proclaim sufering. Such are the people who have neglected Nature's kindly warnings. They have felt bad for a while but kept on hoping until the grip of their ailments was so strong they could not shake it off. Nine times out of ten, too, these ailments started in a simple attack of indigestion accompanied by constipation. Failing to relieve the latter, the blood became contaminated with poisons absorbed from the bowels. Liver and kidneys were unable to filter it out, and thus was established a vicious circle that continued to grow worse until every part of the body was debilitated. That is what neglect does for people. That even the worst cases have been relieved by World's Tonic. Don't wait until you are helpless. Take this wonderful medicine on the appearance of the first symptoms and note how quickly the sallowness and tired feeling disappears, how kidneys and bowels begin to act, and how seen you are feeling better. World's Tonic is sold by Carnahan's, Brannan's at Wellsville, and all other good druggists. Be sure to get the genuine.

Louisiana Literacy

The state of Louisiana deserves praise and increased respect for its educational activities of recent years.

In 1900, the value of all its school property (for white children) was only $2,150,000, a sum no greater than has been spent on single high school buildings in many other parts of the country. At that time, too, 17.3 per cent of the white population was illiterate, and 61.1 per cent of the negroes.

In the quarter-century since then Louisiana has waked up. Illiteracy has dropped nearly half. In 1925 the state spent about 20 times as much on education as in 1900; the value of school property had risen from a little over two million to nearly 41 million dollars.

The school session has been increased from 120 to 170 days. Today 70 per cent of the teachers have college or normal training; 25 years ago only 30 per cent had such training. Per capita expenditure has risen in the same period from 85 cents to $11.03.

The percentage of illiteracy at any given time in a community naturally measures past negligence, while present educational activity will show its results best in the next decade or so. Louisiana has magnificent physical advantages for commerce and finance. Within the next 25 years it will have the fine leadership of educated men and women, backed by a literate population.

The Prince In The Movies

England and the British dominions are now being entertained by a movie of the Prince of Wales' recent tour of Africa and South America. It now comes out that, in addition to his duties as a sort of ambassador de luxe to the whole world and as traveling super-salesman for British manufactures, the heir to the throne has also had to serve his prospective subjects as movie star.

The picture was made under the supervision of the British admiralty, and is said to depict incidents in the tour of the Prince of Wales from the time the battleship Repulse left Portsmouth until the return six months later. The prince traveled 28,000 miles in that period. The outstanding events of the tour, such as the major official welcomes and demonstrations, and also a lot of the simpler pleasant incidents of the trip, were snapped by the movie camera man.

The immediate reason for making and showing this royal movie is to encourage "buying British" throughout the empire. But it is safe to say that the picture will be thoroughly enjoyed by loyal Britishers wherever it is shown. A good travel picture is always a success, and when its leading man is the popular Prince of Wales, large crowds of enthusiastic spectators are assured.

We'd even go so far as to say that the picture would probably be somewhat of a drawing card among the plain people of these democratic United States.

Dollar Corn

The farmer, whose idea of economic bliss used to be "dollar wheat," has recently hoped for dollar corn. Which is a not unreasonable hope. Gauged by expenses and general prices, perhaps corn ought to be worth that much.

The International Harvester company agreed with the farmer and backed its belief with action probably unprecedented in the history of any "trust." It took corn in payment for farm machinery at the rate of a dollar a bushel, in expectation that the grain, though low at the time, would rise to about that level. Its corn receipts in the last few months, on the basis, have been enormous.

Corn, however, has gone down instead of up, and unless the tide turns the Harvester company stands to lose a big sum of money.

This suggests that even a modern American "trust" is not omnipotent in the realm of economics. Many farmers, however, still believe that the government can make what prices it will for commodities. As a matter of fact, the good old, bad old law of economics seems to remain superior to all artificial agencies, and always has its way in the end.

Accidents And Drivers

The chief of police of San Antonio, Tex., thinks it takes two accidents to make a good automobile driver.

"When a man buys a car," explains the chief, "he is careful at first. Then he gets to dodging, and pretty soon somebody dodges the same way and there is an accident. He is careful again for a while, and then he gets reckless once more. He dodges again, and there is another crack-up. After that he settles down and drives sensibly right along."

That is probably the way it works in a good many cases. The psychology of it is sound enough. Most of us have sense enough to learn something from two serious experiences, and be permanently on guard thereafter against a repetition of the same sort of misfortune. But it's hard on the public to have everybody going through a smash-up training school like this, and sometimes it's pretty hard on the smasher himself, and on his family. A rational human being ought to be able to learn from one personal accident—or better yet, from those of other people.

A bee has to stick his—or rather her—nose into 8,360,000 clover blossom tubes to extract enough nectar for one pound of honey, and then human eaters of that honey have the nerve to say a bee isn't really busy.

NEW YORK DAYBYDAY

By O. O. McINTYRE

NEW YORK, March 26.—Thoughts while strolling: Morning along the Park Avenue Mall. Prim nurses and stiffy starched children. Beribboned lap dogs. Ex-noblemen door tenders. The tony apartment house courts with flower-lined arroyos, tiny foot bridges and splashing fountains.

Four rooms and bath at $20,000 a year. Buildings with only porte-cochere entrances. What a spot for book agents; Vanity and chicane. Yet somehow naive. Like the childish longing for new toys. A strolling photographer with the long hair and velveteen coat of Montmatre.

A tea room named for the pirate Jean Lafitte. Whatever became of him? The rumble of New York Central trains. Freshly barbered men in search of yesterday, O, to be romantic at fifty! Despite gout. Short pants. And golf bags. Silk hats and long beards. Jade baths.

Noiseless aloof motors gliding where oxen once stumbled and strained the yoke. An exhibition of old song sheets. Why not a pen-wiper exhibit? A glittering salon for egg facial treatments. A famous dancer in a carriage turnout. They get that way with fame.

The ancient toy and balloon sellers on their way to Central park. And the old man with the green skull cap who rides in a pony-drawn cart. Delicatessen window displays always make me hungry. Vincent Lopez is up early. Eastern culture—a man steps on a lady's foot and hurries on without a word.

Those towers of dullness who idle in club windows. Crowds waiting for strollers—dodging calories. The cordial traffic cop at 47th and 5th avenue.

Business is picking up at soda fountains. And slowing up at fur shops. Hot dog and barbecue stands are opening along Long Island roads. Winter is making her bow!

A rather hospitable bachelor found his open-hearted generosity a little too irksome. The crowd began to collect for cocktails before he had shaken off dregs of sleep. He stood it for a long while, being the gentleman he was, but finally he took a desperate step. Across the entrance door is a glittering glass sign with letters reading: "Never At Home.' It recalls the painted board sign at the gateway of Joaquin Miller's home in the Sierras. It reads: "Not Here—Further On Up the Road."

There is a district in the East Fifties that is becoming known as Beauty Row. Here are the shrines of innumerable cults of beauty. Wrinkles are ironed out and the aquilinity of noses are restored. Fat is boiled or rubbed out. Hair is silvered, hennaed or given a golden sheen.

One advertises as a Beautician. And another as a Cosmetologist. It is in a quiet, little traveled district, and the patrons usually motor up and rush into the salons as though they feared being discovered.

There are about 50 shops in the district. In all Manhattan the list is more than 2,000. The old title of beauty expert has been discarded. Most of them like to be known as cosmetic practitioners. The shops are usually in easy walking distance of the theatres and cafes. The heaviest patronage is from the stage. Show girls often make daily visits.

There are several millionaire beauty experts in New York. One man has made a large fortune removing superfluous hair. But the biggest revenue of beauty parlors comes from the sale of beautifying lotions. Their ingredients are inexpensive, but if a demand is created a big price is charged without the slightest protest. What price beauty?

A big boost for beauty experts resulted from the successful facial operations on Fannie Brice, Bebe Daniels and Edna Ferber. And, of course, Fannie Ward.

HASKIN'S LETTER

By FREDERIC J. HASKIN

Vocational Rehabilitation.

WASHINGTON, March 26.—The greatest experiment in welfare work ever undertaken by the American government, or by any other government, is officially coming to a close on June 30, 1926, but it will probbly at at least five years before even the closest student of social service will be able to judge fairly whether the experiment has been a success. Even then opinions will differ about the outcome, because the element of cost is involved, and the cost has been heavy.

The experiment is the vocational rehabilitation of disabled service men of the World war. Vocational rehabilitation means taking a disabled man and teaching him a new means of livelihood. The reports of the United States Veterans' Bureau indicate that 117,053 disabled men have been rehabilitated and that 12,000 are still in training. This training terminates by law on June 30, and even if congress permits an extension of time for a few special cases, the experiment is practically complete. No more men will enter into training, and the few who remain in training after June 30 will soon finish their courses.

What has this experiment in the remaking of men accomplished? Has the government actually taken a whole army of men shattered in body, and to some extent in mind and spirit, and made them over as good as new? And what has it cost? Some of the facts are available to answer these questions. Others will not be at hand until sufficient time has elapsed to prove the outcome.

Congress first passed the law providing that soldiers disabled in the war to such extent that they could not pursue their former ocupations should be eligible for training in new occupations. During the period of training they should be supported by the government.

This was not so simple as it sounded. First, the wounds or diseases must be cured so that men could study and work. Next, the ability to pursue the pre-war ocupation must be judged, and then the probable success of the man in his new choice of vocation. Government officials soon came to realize that a disabled man was not a normal person. Rehabilitating him was something like bringing up a child, only he had the habits of a grown person. A few of the three-quarters of a million men who asked for rehabilitation had some educational background beyond the grade schools. Most did not ,and many had little schooling of any sort.

Applicants Weeded Out.

Of the many applicants, thousands were found to have no real disability, or very little, and were not allowed training. Other thousands never accepted the training when it was offered. Other thousands did not remain long in the training courses. Many took sick and some died. About 200,000 really got into training, and

Judge Hanley Overrules Motions by George Kouvalis.

Municipal Judge J. C. Hanley has overruled motions for new trials in the cases of Frank Owens of Parkersburg against George Kouvalis, restaurant owner, and Alex Lewis against Kouvalis.

In jury trials, Owen was given a judgment of $218.52 for rent and taxes against Kouvalis, while Lewis was awarded $125 for wages.

Judgment for $40 has been rendered in favor of Logan Smith in the suit against David Southall. The award is for a stove alleged to have been lost from a truck while being removed to Wellsville, four years ago.

For room and board, Laura Pennybaker has been awarded judgment of $25.17 against Ray Mitchell.

H. H. Hall, Maplewood grocer, has been allowed a claim for $61.70 against Albert Gatrell, Richardson avenue. The money represents a grocery bill, according to Hall's statement.

Perfect Score Is Rolled By Reinlie In Ten Pins

Racine, Wis., Man Hits 300 Mark in American Bowling Congress at Toledo.

TOLEDO, March 26.—A perfect score was rolled here today in the American Bowling congress by Charles Reinlie of Racine, Wis., a member of Riepel's Arcade team. It is the first time in 13 years and the second time in the history of the organization that a game of 300 has been chalked up in tournament. The only other perfect mark was made here in 1913 by Billy Knox of Philadelphia.

Reinlie, paired with R. Riepel, was bowling in the doubles. He scored but 167 in his first game, achieved his great performance in the second and wound up in the third with 183. He and Riepel went into seventh place by virtue of theim combined total of 1,278 in the two-men events.

The perfect game was rolled on two much-shunned alleys, Nos. 1 and 2, popularly accredited with being "jinxed." Reinlie hit "in the pocket" in every frame but two—the third and eighth when he crossed over but knocked all the pins down.

On his last ball spectators believed that No. 8 pin had been left standing but two others, rebounding from the sideboards, hit it simultaneously and wiped it off.

Reinlie, 30, has been bowling 10 years and rolls and average of 193 in two Racine leagues.

necessarily less valuable than they were, but gamblers, when frightened, throw their stocks overboard all together, and there is no one to buy.

YOU hear it said "the foreign element must be cleared out of Chicago to wipe out crime."

And you hear "the foreign element must be kept out of the United States that our beautiful, clean American stock may develop free from contamination."

That sounds well, but the three most vicious murders that have recently attracted attention in Greater New York "all came of clean American parentage, but went to the bad early."

That is enlightening. It isn't the man or woman, foreign-born, coming here for a chance to work hard, that means the welfare of the United States.

used in the trial were turned over to the jurors before they retired.

One of the indictments charging Mrs. Camwell with embezzlement contained 65 different counts. The other comprised 11 charges. A forgery indictment, which was also returned, will not be pressed at this session of court.

Mrs. Camwell is at liberty on $5,000 bond furnished by her father, Joseph Dostal, of Butler, who was one of the principal witnesses in his daughter's behalf.

Mrs. Camwell was arrested at Midland about six weeks ago. She and her husband, William Camwell, former member of the state police and now employed as yardmaster for the Crucible Steel company, occupied an elaborately furnished home in Twelfth street. A bank account of $6,000, which the woman and her husband held jointly, came from the salaries of the two, from hand-painted china which the woman sold, from boarders and roomers and from her father who testified that he had sent his daughter gifts of $10, $25 and $50 weekly since she came to Midland about a year ago.

WAVE LENGTH RE-ALLOCATION IS PROPOSED

Hoover May Solve Radio Station Problem.

CONGRESS TO ACT

Five Hundred Applications for Broadcasting Licenses.

WASHINGTON, March 26.—With 500 applications for licenses to operate new radio stations pending before Secretary of Commerce Hoover, plans were being laid today by the department of commerce for a general re-allocation of wave lengths.

The re-allocation will be made soon after congress acts on the radio bills now pending. Should the act fail of passage the government radio authorities will complete the re-assignment of wave lengths during the summer.

Chief Radio Inspector W. D. Terrell said that in the re-allocation the first aim will be to make a better distribution of the present operating stations over the wave lengths from 200 to 545 meters. A second consideration will be the assignment of frequency bands to as many as possible of the broadcasting applicants.

Only a few of the 500 new applicants will obtain wave lengths. Others will be placed on the waiting list and assigned places on the radio scale when existing stations drop out.

In the awarding of new stations the sections of the country which are not well served with broadcasting will be given initial consideration although Terrell said that most of the applicants are from the already congested areas.

Thomas Skeyhill, Student of World Affairs, to Lecture

Fifth and concluding number of the high school lecture course will be given in the High school auditorium tonight when Thomas Skeyhill, a "student of world affairs," will lecture.

Skeyhill has traveled more than a quarter of million miles during the last 10 years. A Turkish shell in the Dardanelles campaign robbed him of his sight for three years. An operation in 1918 restored his vision. He won fame as a war loan speaker; attended the peace conference; later ran the lines into Soviet Russia as one of the first uninvited visitors to that country. He toured Europe again in 1922, attended the Geneva conference and visited Near East, Balkans, Italy, Germany, France and England.

He will deliver one of three of his famous lectures, "The Coming Renaissance in Europe," "The New Elizabethans" and "A Young Man Looks at His World."

Jack Horner, 25-1, Detroit Horse, Wins Race in England

LIVERPOOL, Eng., March 26.—Jack Horner today won the Grand National—the world's greatest steeplechase event. Old Taybridge finished second and Bright's Boy third.

The starting prices were:

Jack Horner, 25 to 1; Old Taybridge 8 to 1; Bright's Boy, 25 to 1.

Jack Horner won a great victory for America, for this horse is owned by C. Schwarts of Detroit, who purchased it two weeks ago for $20,000. It is estimated that the purse won today by Jack Horner will amount to $30,000, and it is to be presumed that the owner backed the horse as well.

Two American horses finished in the money, for Bright's Boy, which finished third, is owned by S. (Laddie) Sanford, who won the Grand National several years ago with Sergeant Murphy.

Court Building Need

Why not put this to work for another improvement?"

A modern four-story building, which would house every department in the city and provide a public auditorium on the fourth floor, if erected on the Central fire station site, would cost about $175,000 to $200,000 according to estimates given Kerr by builders, he reported.

Prosecuting Attorney Brookes advised the purchase of the Croxall Chemical & Supply company property at the intersection of Broadway, Fourth and Union street. He pointed out that schools, library, lodge temples, hotels, Y. M. C. A., girls' home, theatres and postoffice were located within less than two squares of this site, which is rapidly becomeing a community center. He suggested a city hall on this lot and a new building on the Central fire station location.

Need More Taxes, Hilbert Says.

James S. Hilbert, who represented the Chamber of Commerce and Rotary club, admitted the city's need for a municipal building but declared "taxpayers must go down in their pockets and furnish more money for the operating expenses of the city." Both police force and fire departments are handicapped by the lack of men, and there is no hope for relief except by increased taxes, he declared. He also urged the sale of unused real estate, as advocated by Kerr.

Mayor Benedum, who represented the Kiwanis club, asserted that he was present to "listen in" on the meeting. "We are all agreed that the city needs a new building if the funds can be obtained," the executive said. "Let us work for this improvement in harmony."

Samuel Mountford, representing the Sons of St. George, said his committee wanted to hear what was said and would report back to their organization.

Representatives from Pleasant Heights reported that hilltop residents generally favored a city hall, but wanted the market house fund kept intact. Elwyn Shenkel and Percy Calhoun were spokesmen from the Pleasant Heights people.

Remodeling Out of Question.

At this point Kerr declared that he was opposed to a large bond issue but felt that the improvement could be obtained with a small issue if unusued city real estate were sold.

William S. Pittenger, representing the Northside Community association, said he was present merely to hear the plan outlined.

"Remodeling of the city hall is out of the question," said Service-Safety Director J. W. Moore. "I believe the purpose of this meeting is to ascertain whether the people want a new building. Nothing more can be accomplished. A bond issue of $150,000 would not mean a big levy. Place one-half a mill levy on your tax duplicate and this building could be paid for in 20 years. The increased taxes would amount to but little. We don't want to appear extravagant, but the city needs a building that will fill its requirements in years to come. We must have more taxes. It is impossible to run the city on the same money as we had 10 years ago."

Attorney William S. Foulks stated that members of the Lions' club favored the proposal, although no endorsement of the proposition had been voted. He suggested the Taylor lot, Sixth street, as a site for the building.

Oppose Sale of Playgrounds.

At this point Brookes offered a motion that President Kerr appoint a committee from council to list feasible sites and prices.

Mrs. A. J. Savage, a representative of the City Federation of Labor, asserted that her committee favored the new building but was opposed to the sale of the playground lot unless another suitable lot were furnished the children. "Character is made largely in play as well as in the schools and in the home," she added.

Mrs. John Bowers, chairman of the recreation committee of the club federation urged retention of the Second street playlot. She declared that the corner lots opopsite the city hall would be unsatisfactory for a play center. She also voiced a plea for public support of the playground movement.

Mrs. Louis Steinfeld, another women's club worker, said that she was a member of the committee which arranged for the city purchase of the playground lot at the corner of Second and Washington street and was opposed to the sale of it. "I appeal to you to take care of the little ones," were her closing words.

Market House Discussion.

"As long as I am in council we will take care of the children," Councilman Thomas Farrall replied with reference to the plea of the club women. "I am a member of Trades Council and worked for the passage of the market house bond issue. I favored it then, but we know we cannot build a market house for $38,000, and it is a losing proposition. The money can be used for a purpose which would benefit the city. We have fine churches, lodges and theatres but a disgraceful city building. I am opposed to buying property on Second street.

"Would a market house pay in East Liverpool?" Attorney S. W. Crawford inquired of Farrall.

"No, not now," was Farrall's reply. "Trades council isn't the whole city. Let the people vote on it. The money can be utrned back into the sinking fund by a gentleman's agreement without a vote of the people if we see fit."

Purle Smith, representing the Knights of Pythias, said he was uninstructed by members of his organization but personally favored the city hall project.

William Hardy declared that the "vote of Trades and Labor council didn't mean a thing so far as the market house project is concerned." "Residents of Newell and Chester belong to this organization," he said. "Put the city hall to a vote of the people and it will go over big."

Cites Need of Firemen.

Howard Steel, of the Knights of Malta, declared the city needed a municipal building, but asserted that a market house would be a losing proposition. "It failed in Steubenville and Youngstown and would fail here," he said.

Joseph Betz, president of the Chamber of Commerce, declared that one of the blackest spots in the city today was the undermanned fire department. "We have seven pieces of appartus and only five men to drive them. We will have a fire here some day that will cost us ont only our property but lives as well. We should have more firemen, some way, somehow."

Lawrence Smith declared that a new city hall was in line with the movement for improved civic pride. S. C. Williams, Kiwanis club delegate, and Charles Hendershot also advocated a new building if it could be financed. Joseph Smith, of the Lions' club, also spoke in favor of the improvement. R. M. Baur, representing the American Legion, stressed the need of a public auditorium in the proposed new structure which he favored. Transfer of the market house money to a city hall fund was favored by Joseph Strauss, assistant C. & P. ticket agent.

"We voted a bond issue for roads last November and started to pay for it in January," said Attorney S. W. Crawford. "Our taxes were not increased but lowered. We could take on a little civic pride here and provide a new city building. The cost would be small. I favor this improvement and believe members of the Odd Fellows' lodge feel likewise."

Councilman Farrall pointed out that valuable property in the township should be taken into the city. He declared that township residents worked in the city and maintained their home outside of it where taxes were low.

All members of council with the exception of Solons Hughes and Hayes attend the meeting.

REPORTS FROM STOCK MARKET

NEW YORK, Mar. 26.—There was no apparent change in the general condition of the stock market in the early trading today. Special weakness developed in a number of stocks which have been comparatively inactive of late, including Allis Clamers, Columbia Gas & Electric, Atlanta Birmingham & Atlantic Sugar, and International combustion, all of which dropped to the lowest levels of the year.

"Candy Kid" Bandit

of Anthony Paladino and Leon Kramer, members of the gang. Paladino disclosed, according to the authorities, how the Whittemore gang worked with the smoothness of a well-coached football team.

Every robbery was rehearsed in advance, and each man was coached in the part he was to play.

Paladino named two fences, who bought the proceeds of most of the robberies. These men are being hunted and, if captured, will face long prison terms.

As far as the bandits themselves are concerned, Banton said he has plenty of evidence to convict them all. Whittemore will be turned over to Maryland officials soon, it is believed, to face trial for killing an aged prison guard. Whittemore also has been identified as one of the bandits who took part in the killing of two bank guards in a hold-up at Buffalo, N. Y.

tial elections, if the wets are successful. Dry leaders will be asked to co-operate in getting the referendum authorized by congress.

Both wets and drys mean while were preparing lists of witnesses to be summoned to testify about prohibition at the "beer" hearings which start April 5 before the senate judiciary committee. The wets will hold the stage first, having been granted the week of April 5 to 10 to present testimony in support of their demand for legislation legalizing "beer and wines" up to the point where the liquors are "intoxicating in fact." Such legislation, the wets contend, would not require any change in the eighteenth amendment.

April 12-17 Drys' Week.

The drys will be heard during the week of April 12 to 17 to present testimony refuting the wet arguments and in defense of the existing dry law. Although much preparation is being made by both sides for the hearings, neither faction anticipates any action by the present congress toward modifying the law. The hearings rather will be used by both wets and drys as a propaganda agency to get their views before the American people and to arouse the country on the "wet and dry" issue, which will undoubtedly be injected into the 1928 campaigns.

The "wet" case will be directed by Capt. W. H. Stayton, of Baltimore, and Julian Codman, of Boston. Codman, a prominent attorney, will have charge of the examination of wet witnesses. On the "dry" side, Wayne B. Wheeler, generalissimo of the anti-saloon league, will direct the presentation of evidence supporting the dry law.

New Witnesses' Stories May Save Chapman From Hanging

Master Bandit's Counsel Will Seek Writ of Habeas Corpus in U. S. District Court.

NEW YORK, March 26.—Scouts were scouring Connecticut and Massachusetts today for new witnesses whose testimony, according to Frederick J. Groehl, chief counsel for Gerald Chapman, may save the superbandit from hanging in Wethersfield prison a week from next Monday for killing a New Britain, Conn., policeman.

So certain is Groehl that this new evidence, if obtainable, will warrant a new trial, that he will seek a writ of habeas corpus today in the United States courts.

Two new witnesses have been located. Charles W. Gregory, a New York machinist, who disappeared after promising to testify for Chapman, wired Groehl that he is on his way here from northern New York state. The other is a young man who signed himself "Fair Play" on a postcard, offering to testify if Chapman was convicted. It is said that he saw the slayer of James Skelly, the New Britain policeman, and knows he was not Chapman.

For corroboration of "Fair Play's" story, Groel is seeking a woman who is said to have accompanied the young man from New Britain to New York.

A handsome young woman, whose identity could not be learned, was present yesterday at a conference of Chapman's attorneys here.

Hear "Always"

Irving Berlin's newest, most appealing of love-songs, recorded in the New Victor Way

Love's pledge of loyalty . . . "not for just an hour, not for just a day, not for just a year, but ALWAYS!" . . . a love-song, inspired and inspiring.

"Always" will strike a responsive chord the minute you hear its tender, crooning melody. For this great love-song, written from the heart by Irving Berlin, tells the story of the longing and desire of all the world.

This beautiful, haunting melody is available in three separate forms—as a waltz, played by George Olsen and His Music; as a fox trot, played by the International Novelty Orchestra; and as a tenor solo, sung by Henry Burr. Each is different, each is superlatively well done.

Hear these records, made and played in the incomparable Victor manner. You will be amazed by the playing quality of the new Victor Records. They have new beauty and power that will thrill you. Dance music on these new records puts the orchestra right into the room. The deep, guttural "bong" of the bass beats out a rich rhythm that is easily heard above the shuffle of happy feet.

Ask the nearest Victor dealer to play the "Always" records for you, and scores of others equally good, on the new Orthophonic Victrola. Today!

Prof. Earl S. Hilton.

Mrs. Earl S. Hilton.

Piano pupils of Prof. Earl S. Hilton, former resident here, scored a decided hit in an illustrated concert recital given recently in the Moose temple, Youngstown.

Mrs. Earl Hilton, soprano; Miss Jennie Rosson, reader, and the Junior Serenaders, a children's orchestra, assisted in the program. Screen pictures were used in illustrating the various numbers.

Prof. Hilton is a graduate of Dr. Little's Conservatory of Music, Beaver, with the class of 1912. He has appeared in public recitals in Pittsburgh, Youngstown, Beaver and this city. He has maintained studios in Youngstown and East Liverpool for the past 14 years.

Mrs. Hilton, who has a sweet lyric soprano voice, has been studying voice culture for 17 years. Her preparation teachers were Miss Selma Ladzinski, of this city, and Prof. Lawrence Roderick, of Pittsburgh. After singing with the choir of the First Methodist Episcopal church here for three years, Mrs. Hilton completed a course in piano and voice in Beaver college. She then enrolled at Otterbein University in 1915 and studied voice with Prof. Bendinger, piano with Miss Lula Barker and harmony with Prof. Grable. She was a member of a glee club at this school. She has appeared in recitals at Westerville, London Heights, Newark, East Liverpool and Youngstown.

George Thompson Gives Recital.

George Thompson, a former local boy, now head of the organ department of the North Carolina College for Women, gave an organ recital in Temple Emmanuel, Greensboro, N. C., recently. The selections, which were rendered, covered a varied field. There was "The Kol Nidre," a traditional Hebrew melody, in which the artist revealed the pathos of the tortured Jewish soul; "Gavotte, from Mignon," and "Toccata, from the Fifth Symphony" with which Mr. Thompson brought the program to an end.

MINE WORKERS STAGE STRIKE

Elm Grove Walkout Caused by Dispute Over Pay Days.

Seventeen hundred miners of the Elm Grove Mining company went on a strike yesterday when the company refused to pay them every two weeks instead of monthly. The strike order was issued by President John Cinque, of sub-district No. 5, of district No. 6, United Mine Workers, comprising eastern Ohio and the northern Panhandle of West Virginia. Joseph Arkwright, general manager of the company, stated that so far no arrangements have been made to confer with mine leaders in hopes of settleing the wage controversy.

Mine No. 1 is hit the hardest since 450 men have been working up until today. No. 2 mine employes have been out for several days, while No. 3 mine has not been operating since February, when the miners were ordered to wear the special safety electric lamps.

The miners of No. 2 mine of the Elm Grove Coal company refused to return to work on March 16 when they were informed by officials they would be paid monthly.

Relative to the men employed at No. 3 mine, they were ordered to use the safety lamp which had been made compulsory by the state bureau of mines. The bureau prohibited further use of open lights due to the large amount of gas which is reported at various times in different sections of mine No. 3.

Death of John C. Coolidge makes President Calvin Coolidge, owner of the old homestead at Plymouth, Vt., without the formality of a will, inasmuch as Col. Coolidge deeded over all of his property to his son, Feb. 11, 1926. Miss Verbie Moore, town clerk of Plymouth, shows the document.

Bad Liquor, Women and Gambling Get Tia Juana $1,000,000 A Month

"Shame Suicides" of American Family Fail to Stir Crusade to Clean up Border Resorts, Where Vice is Still Rampant.

TIJUANA, Mexico.—More than $250,000—considered an honest estimate—is being spent weekly in this Mexican border village of vice and Tijuana's gambling and drinking life continues day and night at a mad pace.

Clyde and Audrey Peteet, the two American girls who snuffed out their lives in a gas-filled room with their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Peteet, formerly of Kansas City, after a night of horror in Tijuana's dens and dives, apparently gave their lives vainly.

Tijuana today is as sordid a picture as ever of bad liquor, wild women and every form of gambling.

More than a month has passed since the four Peteets, following the outraging of the two girls by Mexicans, including the deposed chief of police of Tijuana, ended their lives in "shame suicides," hoping their deaths would be avenged by a clean-up of the American-patronized town and Tijuana be made safe for visitors.

But less than a dozen resorts have been closed in the promised clean-up. The big "palaces of joy," flooded with thousands of bright lights, adorned with dazzling bars and moaning jazz orchestras, still flourish night and day.

In the town's demimonde, many women are missing, driven across the border to San Diego, where it is reported, they are to remain for only a few weeks before returning to the carnal town.

The racing season is at its height and hundreds pour their gold on the runners' backs daily.

Card games, dice, slot machines and other forms of gambling are rampant. Huge slot machines, where anything from 5 cents to a dollar, may be played, line the bars. Winnings are seldom reported.

Having sold 35 of its 40 vessels and placed the others in government navy service, Portugal has dissolved its natural merchant marine.

NO MORE CONSTIPATION FOR HIM

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN is 100% bran and 100% effective

Mr. Dunbar tried resorts and mineral springs in vain. Only Kellogg's ALL-BRAN relieved him. Read his testimonial:

"I suffered from indigestion and constipation and visited seashore and mineral springs, which only gave temporary relief. None gave permanent relief except Kellogg's ALL-BRAN. I consider your bran one of the greatest inventions of this age."

Yours sincerely,
L. D. DUNBAR, Spartanburg, S. C.

Constipation is the bane of health. Over forty diseases may be traced to it. It fills the system with vile poisons and saps strength. You can't afford to ignore its warning signals. Dizziness, bad breath, spots before the eyes, are just a few of the symptoms.

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN is guaranteed to relieve constipation or your grocer will refund the money. A delicious cereal, ready to serve. Fine with milk or fruit. Use in cooking too.

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN is made by Kellogg in Battle Creek, Michigan, and sold by grocers everywhere. Served at leading hotels and restaurants.

MOLASSES ON RAIL TRACK RUINED SOUTH AFRICAN TRAIN SERVICE

CAPE TOWN, South Africa.—When a train from the northeast steamed into Durban eighty-five minutes late the officials were astonished to learn that the reason for the delay was treacle on the line.

Investigations up the line found this to be true. The treacle was in a large tank on one of the trucks of a goods train, and from some cause or another the tank leaked and the metals, over a considerable distance, became coated with the liquid.

The passenger train, on reaching the affected portion of the line, quickly slowed down, and at a slight gradient came to a standstill altogether. The wheels revolved, but the train did not budge.

This went on for half an hour, when another train came along and was joined to the stationary one. An extra train was also obtained to push the two trains along, but without success.

Finally, by the use of large quantities of grit on the metals, the train was unstuck and resumed its journey.

Couldn't Stand the Job

FOUND HE WAS LICKED WHEN HE WENT TO THE TEST

Old Story to the World's Pep Treatment Man Carries Lesson for Sick People

"That man reminds me of Big Jim Hathaway, over in Indianapolis," said the World's Pep Treatment man, as a big stranger left Carnahan's. "Big Jim was one of the huskiest fellows I ever saw, but he had to quit a job of bossing a labor gang because he wasn't strong enough to hold up his end.

"Big Jim wouldn't believe anything could get him down. He met his match by getting a hard cold, however. He let that cold hang on for months, until he looked like he had shrunken. But he was able to get around and he wouldn't give up. This labor gang was a tough crowd. The employer knew it, but he knew Jim's reputation and he made him boss. Jim went at it, too, but the second day he just sat down and bawled like a baby because he had lost all his strength. The gang knew it and he couldn't boss them for a minute.

"That was the day before I met him and advised him to take World's Pep Treatment. I never saw a worse case for such a short time. He was as weak a big man as I ever saw.

"Well, the first month of World's Pep Treatment helped him a little. The second put him on his feet. After the third he hunted up that gang of roughnecks, and they got a real surprise. Jim has bossed that gang for several months now, and nobody starts anything with him either. That's the trouble with a lot of folks. When their glands slow up they depend on their own strength until it is gone and then they are wrecks. A package of World's Pep Treatment as soon as they begin to slow up would save them a lot of trouble, but they wait until they are real bad. I suppose because of this I sell more World's Pep treatment, but I hate to see suffering, and if I could make people realize what a wonderful remedy World's Pep Treatment is there would be many more happy people." Get it at once and start today at Carnahan's, Brannan's in Wellsville, and all other up-to date drug stores.

Price

Price is always a practical fact to be faced, even by those who instinctively seek the best. Yet price need not be an obstacle in the selection of engagement and wedding rings. The Traub trade mark identifies Genuine Orange Blossom and guarantees quality, yet allows a wide selection at prices that vary according to the style and jeweling selected. The two rings pictured above are Genuine Orange Blossom, beautifully hand-chased in iridio-platinum or 18K gold—yet they represent a very moderate expenditure.

Chicago Cops Try Cafeteria Plan For Trattic Troubles

If Pinched, You Can Sign Jury Waiver, Plead Guilty to Policeman and Send Check.

CHICAGO.—The cafeteria plan has been applied to violators of the Chicago traffic laws.

If you're pinched now for any one of a hundred or two minor infractions of the ordinance relating to parking, speeding, lights, stopping and so on, you can sign a jury waiver, plead guilty to the arresting policeman and send the traffic court a check for the proper fine.

The arrest slips are printed. On the back appear the standardized fine rates. On the front side the policeman checks the offense for which he has taken you in. If you refuse to sign the waiver he presents at the same time, he makes out and serves on the spot a summons to court.

Certain offenses require a court appearance. They include such breaches of the law as driving while intoxicated, piloting a car that does not belong to you, operating a vehicle if you are a minor and reckless driving.

Other court appearances are mandatory for those who offend more than twice. The first time is productive of fines ranging from $1 to $5 and the second of fines from $3 to $10.

NO ONE NEED SUFFER ANY MORE WITH LAME BACK, RHEUMATISM PAINS OR SORE MUSCLES

SURE, QUICK, SAFE AND CHEAP; IT NEVER STAINS OR BLISTERS

Why Use Old-Fashioned Remedies—This Works Almost Like Magic.

It is the easiest thing in the world to relieve the aches, pains, swelling, stiffness and agony of neuritis, neuralgia, lumbago, sciatica, or rheumatism nowadays. Such things as lame back, achy, crippled feet, sprains, water on the knee, stiff joints, etc., can be relieved in a jiffy if you wish.

Of course oldtime weaker remedies often failed and worked slow but among professional athletes they use a liniment that is unquestionably the finest, quickest, surest and best that money can buy.

Drop in at the drug store tonight and ask for a bottle of Mike Martin's Liniment, made by the famous trainer, Mike Martin of the Washington ball club. You'll find with each bottle a folder telling just how to use it. You'll see just how they fix up big league baseball stars who suddenly develop a lame back, sore muscles, rheumatic pains, sprained ankles, etc. You will find how they apply this remarkable liniment to a man who suffers periodically with lumbago or other forms of rheumatism so as to prevent him having attacks. You see in the folder how they apply it to keep the men from catching colds, becoming stiff, sore, achy or lame from over-exercise or exposure in the cold and rain.

Worth a Fortune.

A small bottle of Mike Martin's Liniment and the directions he gives for its use is worth a fortune when some night rheumatic pains torture you, or you feel achy, lame and bad all over.

Until a short time ago Mike Martin supplied this liniment to professional athletes only. Now he has made up a huge batch and through drug stores is offering it to the public. Thousands of suffering men and women who have used it declare Mike Martin's Liniment is positively marvelous. One thing is certain: High salried big league stars wouldn't fool with anything but the quickest, safest, surest and best that money can buy. Walter Johnson, Ty Cobb, Coveleski and other would never in the world risk anything but the best on their arms, shoulders, back and limbs. It is certain that the Pittsburgh Pirates would never use the liniments made by the Washington Club's Trainer unless it was better than anything they could buy elsewhere.

Folks troubled years with lame back, rheumatic pains, etc., say that in just a few applications of Mike Martin's Liniment, applied according to this famous trainer's directions, they got complete and amazing relief. Carnahan's Drug Stores, and all good drug stores.

MIKE MARTIN, Trainer, Washington Baseball Club.

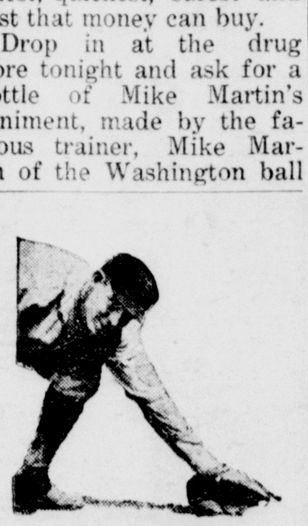
RAY KREMER, Pitcher, World Champion "Pirates."

"We ball players get lame, stiff, sore, achy and crippled up a lot. Using the right liniment is important with us. I use Mike Martin's Liniment because it is the best made.

"Mike is doing a big thing for the public in selling it for a low price in drug stores. It's worth ten times what it costs." Signed, Ray Kremer, Pittsburgh Pirates.

Pittsburgh Trainer Also Praises It.

"I use Mike Martin's Liniment because it is the quickest, surest, most effective liniment made for aches, pains, strains, lameness, soreness and stiff joints. It is wonderful liniment. Beats them all." Signed, George Aston, Trainer, Pittsburgh Pirates.



GLENN WRIGHT, S.S., Pittsburgh "Pirates."

"It seemed funny during the World Series to see both teams using the same liniment, but you've got to take your hat off to Mike Martin. His liniment is wonderful, even if he is on the Washington team." Signed, Glenn Wright.

JOHN MORRISON, Pitcher, Pittsburgh "Pirates."

"Mike Martin could charge ten times what he does of that liniment of his and not a soul would refuse to pay it. It is the finest liniment made and no mistake." Signed, John Morrison.

LEE MEADOWS, Pitcher, Pittsburgh Champions.

"Sure I use Mike Martin's Liniment. I hurt my elbow during the first game of the World Series. Mike's Liniment fixed it up quick — just like it does any ache or pain." Signed, Lee Meadows.

"VIC" ALDRIDGE, Pitcher, World Champs "Pirates"

"Mike Martin's Liniment is quick, sure and wonderful. I pitched twice during the World Series with only a couple days' rest—and it kept my arm 'as loose as a goose,' and no soreness developed at all." Signed, Vic Aldridge.

JOHN RAWLINGS, Infielder, Pirates—World Champions.

YES--THE PITTSBURGH "PIRATES" USE MIKE MARTIN'S LINIMENT--DO YOU?

Cafes and Amusements Now Prosper in Japan In Spite of Hard Times

TOKYO — Hard times may prevail in Japan, but the cafes, restaurants, theatres and other places of amusement are prosperous and flourishing, according to officials of the Metropolitan Police Bureau.

An investigation conducted by the police department reveals that during the first ten days of January, a period always given over to celebrations in Japan, more than $4,000,000 was spent by Tokyo pleasure-seekers.

The new cheap long-distance rates on German railways have proved so popular that water shipping on the Rhine and Main has been reduced to almost nothing.

Use the Soap that Stimulates Skin

"Choose a soap," they say, "that cleans tiny pores full length and then stimulates the areas around them"—for by this method you can have skin that is healthy, vivid, soft.

And the soap that is best for both purposes they say, is Jap Rose.

Because of its purity (you can see through it) Jap Rose can enter and cleanse your tiny pores that coarse soaps would clog.

And the 2 natural tonics Jap Rose contains, stimulate the tissues beneath; the blood grows lively, new color comes.

The temporary tingle that follows its first use shows that your skin is returning to normal and new beauty is in prospect.

MODERNISTS ARE SCORED BY DR. J. M. KOEHNE

Speaks on "Popular Phases of Doubt" at Presbyterian Church.

CONDEMNS JAZZ

Points Out There Will be Future Punishment.

That present-day civilization needs a modern religion to fulfill its alleged superior requirements was emphatically denied by Dr. John M. Koehne, of London, N. H., in his second of a series of discourses bulwarking fundamentalist doctrines at the First Presbyterian church last evening. But for some new discoveries in the field of science, the world accompiishments of the moment are not what they once were, he asserted. "Wherefore," he asked, "since our physical powers are the same is there need for anything more?"

Dr. Koehne spoke on "Popular Phases of Doubt." His theme tonight will be: "Skeptical Theories About Christ."

Though yet feeling the effects of a recent slight indisposition, Dr. Koehne was uncompromising in analysis of the untenable position of those who averred the religion of the fathers had become passe in this rapidly moving interim in the life of the world. With wonderful grasp of ideas and profundity of thought he exhibited the opposing viewpoint as possessed of glaring weaknesses and incompatible with proved facts.

Dr. Koehne was again introduced by Dr. D. W. MacLeod, First Presbyterian pastor, who declared all the addresses to be given by the New England minister would be "statements of a master in this line of religious investigation and that not a single church of his own denomination, the Congregational, would permit him the opportunity of proclaiming the ideas thus released.'

As at the initial service on Wednesday evening a song service preceded the address. It was directed by Oliver Johnson of the First Presbyterian choir. The invocation was made by Rev. L. J. Davison, pastor of the First United Presbyterian church.

Members of other than the co-operating churches were in attendance, including some of their pastors.

Refers to Devotees of Vice.

Dr. Koehne took the stand that so-called modernism does not now exist in fact. "We have the same muscles, nerves and bodies as in the past," he explained. "The human brain is a sponge that can absorb all that is known as it always could. Babes are not born now with the ability to read Shakespeare. They must learn the alphabet as their mental powers unfold as children have done since time began. So threre is no need for any scholarly dunces writing a code of ethics for the modern mind as differentiated from that that obtained in the past."

"Present-day devotees of vice do not really know wickedness as those did in the past," he maintained. "Why this jazz music that young folks now take to with such avidity has been danced for centuries by naked African savages. Is there anything modern about it? Is there about the crime wave? About death? Your modern girl does not ask for a lip stick when she is dying."

"Death," he went on, "is the same now as of old. What is modern about it? It is the same mystery it ever was. Only its certainty is as always. And how then would you say that a new religion to suit a new civilization is needed? For in truth we are not modern. In painting we have refuge for ideals in the old masters; where have we improved in Scripture over the contributions of Michael Angelo? How has the architecture of St. Peter's cathedral been improved upon? In jurisprudence were were equaled 2,000 years before Abraham. Liberty is not a modern idea that was born when Patrick Henry exclaimed: "Give me liberty or give me death." Why Moses gave us that notion in the inscription noted on the long cracked liberty bell. Let us not be deluded with our alleged modernism."

Insincerity in Politics.

Here Dr. Koehne took a fling at the insincerity of political parties. "In our two parties the difference lies in the quality and quantity of lies they release," he declared.

Dr. Koehne declared so-called agnostics were wrong in refusing to accept that which they could not demonstrate. He took the stand that few things could be. He analyzed the parts of an inch as the basis of measurements which he indicated could be indefinitely done. "By no process," he affirmed, "can something be divided into nothing; there is always something left." Thus he argued it was manifestly wrong to refuse the condition of a demonstration. "How can anything be demonstrated without accepting it?" he asked.

"Christ was a physical fact, men saw him. Christianity is a physical fact, we have seen persons transformed by it. Christ is the pyramid of God and the New Testament His shadow. Human consciousness perceives Him. Moral facts are ever discerned. Who tells you it is wrong to steal? Your conscience which makes it an eternal verity. Christ is a moral fact. Let your conscience read your Bible. Those doing so, if members of a Bible class, will not pass up church at the close of Sunday school."

Dr. Koehne declared it was impossible to reason Christ. He is spiritually known as are all spiritual facts. "We will know Christ on the same tearms we know God. For 2,000 years church scholars have tried to undo Christ and failed."

Dr. Koehne denied vigorously the general belief that God will not damn a man who sincerely doubts. "Can a falsehood be made true because of sincerity?" he interrogated. Saul sincerely denied Christ. But repenting of sins, truth stood out, despite his sincerity. When a thing is true, it is true in itself. It does not matter how sincere the doubter.

That there will be future punishment was also declared by Dr. Koehne. "This truth is not much preached these days," he opined. "Men say they do not believe there will be. What has that to do with it? If a man does not believe poison is such, will his life be saved if he swallows it? Do not be deluded."

Dr. Koehne closed with a detailed account of the burial of a soldier. He told finally of the bugler blowing "taps." But he concluded: "Skepticism has no bugler taps. Lights out'." For he indicated that will not be the end, no matter how great the sincerity of such a belief.

Before all succeeding sessions of the present combined tri-church meetings a prayer service will be held in the basement of the First Presbytery church. It will begin at 7:15 o'clock.

One of the floats at the last carnival at Nice, France, was a perambulator nearly 20 feet high filled with dolls representing types of French life.

Is Champion House Cleaner

"Your medicine is certainly the greatest cleaner I ever saw. I never thought such stuff could be in a human being. I am feeling ten years younger since taking the course of MAYR'S, and am telling everybody it is the champion house cleaner. My bloating in stomach and pains are all gone and I can eat anything." It is a simple, harmless preparation that removes the catarrhal mucus from the intestinal tract and allays the inflamation which causes practically all stomach, liver and intestinal ailments, including appendicitis. One dose will convince or money refunded.

Slattery Goes Limit With Young Stribling

By Davis J. Walsh.

NEW YORK, Mar. 26. — If Gene Tunney is half the man his exhorters would have one believe, then William Lawrence (Young) Stribling is entitled to consider himself fortunate that the Miami transaction neglected to transact. At any rate, William indicated as much last night when he failed to stop Jimmy Slattery in ten rounds.

All Stribling won was the decision. He lost nearly everything else, including prestige as an embryonic contender for the heavyweight title.

It may be of moment that Slattery was almost affectionate in the clinches, often holding both of Stribling's hands locked under his arm pits until the referee broke them. It isn't necessary to add that this cramped William's style beyond all reason, which was Slattery's inalienable privilege. It would not have been the best of good business to trade wallops, particularly when one is reputed to have a jaw with a porcelain inlay.

Still, they say it takes two to make a fight and that probably is the reason last night's activities came within the letter of the law. It was strictly a boxing exhibition.

Slattery, his confidence gone, declined to open up until the ninth round when it was apparent that he was due to go the limit. Twice in the last two rounds, he crossed his right to Stribling's jaw but the gesture was too long overdue to make much difference, if any, I gave him only two of the ten rounds. So much for Slattery.

Misses Big Chance.

As for Stribling, he cannot escape the onus of failing to knock Slattery out in the seventh round. Any man with a real punch would have done so. He had James ready for the big tumble from lefts and rights to the jaw, set himself for the finisher—and missed three of them. But a moment later, he caught Slattery full on the jaw with a right and nothing happened.

James never would have seen the eighth round against punchers like Berlenbach and Delaney.

The seventh round was one of a comparative few that produced anything savoring of action. Using a body attack whenever Slattery's affectionate arms would permit him, Stribling easily carried the first four rounds, although some of his strong arm work may have cut into his points. The fifth saw Slattery step inside Stribling's leads for counters that earned him a shade at the bell, but from the seventh to the ninth it was all Stribling.

Slattery got the benefit of the doubt in the ninth and the tenth was even, if anybody cared, which nobody did.

'Ma' Stribling, Veteran Fight Fan, Calm While Son's Taking Punches

"Nervous?" Asks Reporter; "No," Says "Ma," "This is Old Stuff With Me." Billy's Bride Sees Battle.

By James L. Kilgallen.

NEW YORK, March 26. — Time: 10:30 p. m. Place: Ringside, Madison Square Garden. The main bout. The principals have just entered the ring.

"Ma" Stribling comes in unobstrusively from somewhere. She is here to see her boy, William Lawrence Stribling, the "Georgia Peach," do battle with Jimmy Slattery, the "Fighting Irishman" from Buffalo.

She takes a seat in the front row. She flashes a mother's loving smile at her stalwart son standing in the ring awaiting the gong.

"Young" Stribling looks down at her and winks.

"Billy's right tonight," remarks Ma. "I know that wink."

The bell. Round one. They're at it, two handsome, clean-limbed young gladiators.

"Ma" leans back comfortably. She takes a stop watch from her bag. Timepiece in hand she watches the fight. She is a pretty, youngish-looking mother, with smiling blue eyes and a sharp dimple in her chin.

Dreams of Championship.

"Nervous?" reporter asks Ma.

"Not a bit," Ma replies. "This is old stuff with me. I've seen all of his fights."

As the round ends, Ma remarks that "Pa" looks busy. Mr. Stribling is in the Stribling corner, dabbing a sponge on his son's face.

Picking up the thread of the interview, Ma continues:

"No, I'm never nervous any more when my boy's in there, giving and taking it. I'm one mother who has raised her boy to be a fighter. I have two sons. Some day I'm sure this one is going to be the world's heavyweight champion. I've dreamed all my life that this will come about, and I know it will."

Round two ends with the crowd booing her son for rough tactics.

"Why doesn't Slattery quit dancing and fight?" complains me. "He's in there to stay the limit—I don't blame Billy for roughing him up a bit."

The second, third and fourth rounds slip by, Ma looking on calmly.

Stribling takes some punishment in the sixth.

He just looks over Slattery's shoulder at Ma and winks.

Ma is asked if the punishment her son is getting makes her flinch.

"Of course not," she replies. "Why, I could bear that myself."

Ma settles back in her chair, relaxes. The 18,000 fans are in an uproar. People are shouting, a woman or two half hysterical nearby as the seventh, eighth and ninth rounds are reeled off. Everybody excited, it seems, but Ma.

She's Lady-Like Fan.

No, she never yells at a fight. Unlady-like, for one thing, she says in her soft southern drawl. Why get excited? Big crowd, isn't it? New York is having nice weather, don't you think? The pretty girl next to her? Oh, that Billy's bride, the former Clara Virginia Kinney of Macon, Ga. Oh yes, she approves of Billy fighting; that was understood before they were married.

Round ten! Fast and furious, both boys giving all they have left. Then the bell. The fight's over. Then—

"The winner," shouted the announcer—"Stribling."

Young Stribling, a little battered, looks down at Ma and winks.

"What did I tell you about that wink?" Ma says in a matter-of-fact tone as she waits for "her boy" to crawl back through the ropes and kiss her.

M.P.'s and Parks Are Cage Winners

In Sunday School cage league battles last night at the Y. M. C. A., the Methodist Protestants downed the Baptists, 41 to 37, and the Park Boulevards trimmed the Pennsylvania Avenue five, 18 to 13.

The M. P.-Baptist clash was close all the way, the Jackson street lads landing in the final five minutes, with C. Mackey, Ankrim and Carey leading the way. The Baptist stars were G. Mackey, Hall and Parsons.

The Avenue quint held the long end of the score in the opening period, but were overwhelmed by the Parks in the later stages of the game and finished second. F. Kirkham, Crawford and McKee performed well for the winners. Heath, Rose and Staley were the big guns for the Avenue outfit.

ROSIES TO PLAY FOR CAGE TITLE

CLEVELAND, O., March 26.—The Cleveland Rosenblums today held the title for the second half of the American basketball league's season by virture of their win here last night from the Palace club, of Washington, D. C., by a score of 33 to 21.

The Rosenblums will meet Brooklyn here April 7 in the opening of the world's series.

Captain Kennedy, Washington, was fined $25 for striking Referee Paul Fitting.

Mt. Union Champions In Tri-State Tourney

Squad Divides Ranks, Following Vote on New Captain, to Form Sigma Nu Serpents and Reviews; "Lefty" Miller in Action.

The entire Mt. Union college team, champions of the Ohio conference for three straight years, will be on the floor in the Tri-State amateur basketball tournament to be staged tomorrow at the high school and the Y. M. C. A. bringing with them Colin "Slim" Bromby, East Liverpool boy and the great "Lefty" Miller, crack center and conference star.

But they will not go on as a team—their ranks having been split to form the Sigma Nu Serpents and the Alliance Reviews, and thereby hangs a story.

The Sigma Nus wil be led by Bromby and will have Parker Orr, guard, in addition to Miller, and the two Burkle boys who rate pretty high themselves in basketball.

The Reviews will boast the services of George Wilcoxen, forward, Kenneth "Ducky" Mills, guard, Nelson "Curly" Ball, guard, and "Bo" Labor, guard, East Palestine boy, who captained last year's squad.

According to reports filtering in to the scene of the tourney games, the squad broke even on the matter of electing a captain for next season, Bromby being the Sigma Nu candidate. The battle of votes waxed hot and following the entry of Bromby's Sigma Nus in the local meet, the opposition decided to come into the fold and gathered their forces together to contest the Serpents' attempts.

The prospective meeting between the teams looms as the feature engagement of the tournament.

Both are booked in the lower backet, at 4:40 at the Y. M. C. A. The Serpents will play at 11:40 a. m. against the Webbers, of Pittsburgh, at the high school.

The tournament will start tomorrow morning at 9 o'clock and will run throughout the day with brief breathing spaces at noon and at 6 o'clock in the evening.

There will be afternoon games both on the high school floor and at the Y. M. C. A., tourney officials being compelled to double up on account of the large entry list.

The semi-finals will start tomorrow night at 7:30 o'clock, followed by the final. The last three games of the affair will be handled by Bill Watkins.

Sportsmen Plan Outing Program

A special meeting of the Columbiana County Fish and Game Protective association is scheduled to be held at the court house, Lisbon, Friday night, when additional plans will be considered for the annual field meet at the new state park at Guilford, July 28th.

The governing board met at Leetonia Thursday night for the purpose of organizing a branch of the county association there. Next week an organization meeting will very likely be held at Columbiana, and then one is scheduled for Salineville.

Copies of the fish and game laws of Ohio for the season of 1925-1926 have been received by Clerk of Courts Frank Ballantine from Director of Agriculture Charles V. Truax, and these are being distributed to those who make personal application. The book contains 64 pages, and in addition to giving the text of every fish and game law now in effect in Ohio, also refers to the penalties for violations.

AGRICULTURE NORMAL AFTER WAR EXPANSION

Census Figures Show Reduction in Farms Operated.

POULTRY DEMAND

Increase in Truck Average Near Large Cities in East.

WASHINGTON.—Indicating that agriculture in America is gradually returning to normal from the war-time expansion, Bureau of Census figures show that there was a reduction of 75,735 in the number of farms operated in 1925, as compared to 1920, bringing the total January 1, to 6,372,263.

Farms under cultivation number practically the same as in 1910.

Factors contributing to the reduction were given by an official census bureau statements as follows:

(1) Ravages of the boll weevil in some of the cotton states.

(2) Migration of negro farm workers north.

(3) A succession of dry seasons in parts of the Northwest.

(4) Consolidation of farms.

(5) General recession from the war-time expansion in agriculture, which still persisted in 1920.

Farms Decrease.

"The net decrease of 1.2 per cent in the number of farmers is a result of considerable drops in some sections of the country, particularly offset by increases in other districts," the bureau said.

"Increases have resulted from the opening up of new lands in part of the West; from the subdivision of ranches and large farms for more intensive operation and from the development of orchards and truck and poultry farms.

"The establishment of small truck and poultry farms, especially near the cities, accounts for most of the increase shown for New England and some other sections of the East."

Texas, by reason of its enormous area, exceeded all other states in the number of farms with a total of 466,195. Other states ranged as follows:

Rank of States.

North Carolina, 283,492; Missouri, 260,484; Kentucky, 258,511; Mississipi, 257,227; Tennessee, 252,669; Ohio 244,702.

Rhode Island with 3,911 farms, and Nevada with 3,913, were at the bottom, as agriculturists.

In the District of Columbia were 139 farms.

Bolivar county, Mississippi, with 12,873 farms, took the national title among counties of the country. Los Angeles county, California, had 12,389 farms; Fresno county, California, 10,463, and Lancaster county, Pennsylvania, 11,457.

A decrease in the number of farms in the South, as compared to the last census in 1920, was shown in Alabama, Arkansas, Georgia, Tennessee, Mississipi and South Carolina, while the number in Florida, North Carolina and Texas was higher.

In the Middle West farms decreased in numbers in North Dakota, Illinois, Indiana, Michigan, Ohio, and Missouri; Iowa and Kansas remained the same as in 1920, while Nebraska, Minnesota, South Dakota and Wisconsin gained.

THREE WOMEN IN CONGRESS SCORE CRITICS

HIT FUN-MAKERS

Mesdames Kahn, Norton And Rogers Give Their Views.

WASHINGTON, Mar. 23.—The fulsome criticism of congress which is now apparently a popular pastime throughout the country, finds no echo of sympathy from the three women who comprise the "feminine bloc" in the house of representatives.

On the heels of a resolution through which Representative Thomas, D.) Okla., seeks to have congress investigate itself and see if there is any foundation for the criticism, came strong commendation of the harried legislators today from Representatives Florence P. Kahn, (R.) California; Mary T. Norton, (D.) New Jersey, and Edith Nourse Rogers, (R.) Massachusetts.

"I am shocked," said Thomas, "when I am forced to take notice of some of the teachings, admissions and tendencies I hear and see upon every hand. Through books, magazines, newspapers, editorials, sermons, lectures and addresses, doctrines are being broadcast which constitute a mass indictment of congress, an impeachment of its membership and a challenge of the ability, patriotism and integrity of the representatives of the people."

All this might indicate that something is wrong with congress.

"No," chorus the women.

"I am sick and tired of hearing people make fun of congress," said Mrs. Kahn. "It seems to be the new indoor sport which is unfortunate. Such an attitude makes for contempt of congress and ultimately for contempt of law.

"Nowhere will one find a more hard-working set of men than in the house of representatives. They make personal sacrifices to come here, like the scientists who works works for practically nothing because he loves his work."

Mrs. Norton has, if anything, even stronger views on the subject. She said:

"The man or woman who criticizes the government and has nothing constructive to offer in its place, is not worthy of the great honor of being an American citizen.

"Criticism of congress as carried on today is wrong. When laws are passed that people disapprove of, it is their own fault, in the final analysis. The government is what the people themselves make it."

Mrs. Rogers thought she had not been in congress long enough to pass judgment but on the whole believed it was composed of a fine body of men.

"They really treat a woman much better than they treat one another," said Mrs. Rogers. "I never feel like an outsider. One is greatly impressed with the courtesy of the men, who never act as though we were in the way."

The fruit-fly and heavy rains have caused great damage to grain crops in Lithuana during the past winter.

Much road construction work is being done in Mexico.

"SHE WAS JUST A SAILOR'S SWEETHEART" played on Victor Record at DAVIS BURKHAM & TYLER'S MUSIC STORE. Hear it. On reverse side of this record TED WEEMS and HIS ORCHESTRA plays "THE DAY THAT I MET YOU."

Average American In 1925 Devoured 154 Pounds of Meat

Country Produced 17,956,000,000 Pounds of Beef, Veal, Mutton and Pork, and Used 2,224,000,000 Pounds of Lard.

WASHINGTON—America is still one of the greatest meat-eating nations of the world.

Despite a slight falling off last year, believed caused by an increased number of vegetarians, the country produced in 1925 the enormous total of 17,956,000,000 pounds of beef, veal, mutton and lamb, and pork. For good measure, Americans used 2,224,000,000 pounds of lard.

These figures were compiled by the department of agriculture.

Total beef consumed reached the highest point on record, the per capita consumption being 63.1 pounds, with a total of 7,146,000,000 pounds produced.

The total per capita consumption of all meats was 154.3 pounds.

Total Consumption Less.

While the total meat consumption was lower than for the two years immediately preceding, it was slightly higher than the average for the last five years. Decreased pork consumption, as compared with the unusually high years of 1924 and 1923, was largely responsible for the drop in the total.

The consumption of mutton and lamb, relatively low in the United States, has remained at about the same level for the last five years. Per capita consumption of veal, however, has shown a steady rise.

Production of dressed veal in 1925 reached the record total of 1,001,000,000 pounds, 70,000,000 pounds greater than in 1924. Production of mutton and lamb increased by 10,000,000 pounds. In this case the total of 599,000,000 pounds was the highest since 1921.

Within recent years there has been little foreign trade either in veal or mutton and lamb, and consequently in these classes the consumption practically corresponds to the production.

The reduction of more than 11,000,000 in the swine slaughtered in 1925 accounted for the considerable decrease in the supply of pork and lard. Hog values, as a result, were about 50 per cent higher than in 1924.

Although exports in 1925 fell off by 25 per cent for pork and 27 per cent for lard, the year's trade was nevertheless quite sizable, amounting to 549,000,000 pounds of pork and 719,000,000 pounds of lard. These totals are larger by a substantial margin than the average pre-war exports.

REAL OLD TIME SPELLING BEE CROWDS CHARLESTON OUT OF IOWA

DES MOINES, Ia. — The old-fashioned spelling bee is Iowa's newest indoor sport.

The Charleston has been crowded out of Iowan parlors while training is on for a big spelling match. Spelling "coaches" are becoming the vogue.

Dictionaries with frayed edges from the hey-day of the cross-word puzzle craze are now in danger of becoming total wrecks.

Seventy-nine of the 99 counties in the state are enlisted in a state-wide spelling contest, with 251,000 participants. They range all the way from 10 to three-score-and-ten in age and include all avocations from farmer to manufacturer.

The state-wide contest revolves around more than 5,000 schools in the state, but more than one meeting of a bridge club has been turned into a spelling contest.

The younger generation is going into the game hard. A bunch of school pupils stepped out near Adel and won from the adults of the community. At Nashua business men staged a comeback for the older generation by taking the honors at a contest held in the town opera house.

Iowa is learning to spell.

is curbed this new way of solving oldest hygienic problem; gives true protection—discards like tissue

THERE is a new way in women's hygiene that ends the insecurity of old-time "sanitary pads" and their unhappy days.

Eight in 10 better-class women now use "KOTEX."

✓ Discards as easily as a piece of tissue. No laundry. No embarrassment.

Five times as absorbent as ordinary cotton pads.

Deodorizes, thus ending ALL danger of offending.

Obtainable at all drug and department stores simply by saying "KOTEX." You ask for it without hesitancy.

Costs only a few cents. Proves old way a needless risk. 12 in a package. In fairness to yourself, try it.

LESS DRUNKS LAST YEAR THAN 1924, IS NEW YORK STATE REPORT

ALBANY—A total of 15,670 persons were convicted in courts of special session in New York state in 1925 for intoxication as compared with 17,269 in 1924.

Of the total of 68,287 persons convicted in these courts last year, 3,749 were women. The total number of conviction in 1924 reached 66,445 and 61,169 in 1923.

These facts were revealed in the annaul report of crime statistics submitted to the state legislature by Mrs. Florence E. S. Knapp, secretary of state.

In both courts of record and courts of special sessions, there were 77,201 convictions last year as against 74,959 in 1924. Convictions in courts of records totalled 8,914 as compared to 8,514 the previous year.

In 1925, 147 persons in the state were convicted of murder and manslaughter, with 15 executions. In 1924 there were a total of 136 murder convictions.

British Birth Rate Lowest on Record; Statistics Cited

LONDON.—The birth rate in England and Wales in 1925 was the lowest recorded, according to birth and death statistics just issued here. The last quarter of the same year showed the highest death rate since the great epidemic of 1918.

Total births, deaths, and marriages for the whole year were as follows:

Births	710,979
Deaths	473,006
Marriages	590,332

The natural increase of population by excess of births over deaths was therefore 237,973, but the average annual increase in the preceding five years was 349,045.

PROMINENT MEN O. K. MT. UNION

Endorse Campaign for $2,000,000 Endowment Fund.

ALLIANCE, O., March 26.—On the eve of the national campaign for $2,000,000 Mount Union college proposes to launch the night of April 6, men prominent in national and state affairs have come out with enthusiastic endorsement of the big undertaking. United States senators, the governor of the state, college presidents, churchmen, scientists and others whose opinions are widely recognized, have praised the distinguished record of Mount Union college and expressed confidence in the final outcome of the coast-to-coast campaign.

Governor Donahey was among the first to give the movement his official endorsement. "The accomplishments of Mount Union college, as attested by its influence generally as well as a splendid alumni, are unsurpassed by like institutions anywhere. With bigger and better facilities its great usefulness will increase accordingly and we will marvel still more at its handiwork. Nothing could be more meritorious and I wish the campaign every possible success."

Newton D. Baker, former secretary of war, is also behind the big campaign for $2,000,000. "I do not know enough to be dogmatic about such a thing," said Mr. Baker, "but I am prepared to believe a dollar given to Mount Union produces as much education and bestows it as worthily as a dollar given to any college I know."

Both U. S. Senators Simeon D. Fess and Frank B. Willis have wholeheartedly endorsed the Ohio institution.

Canada's foreign trade during January was the largest for that month since 1921.

3 Things to Take Home! Attention, Men Only!

The first is a cheerful, happy smile and a sweet disposition. This assures you a warm welcome. In order to scatter this properly in the family, a brick, or 2 bricks, or 3 bricks—in fact, any number of bricks of Rieck's Ice Cream should nestle cosily under your arm. In the left-hand bosom pocket of your coat there should snuggle from 2 to 4 of our good Cigars. This prescription used freely promotes contentment, a splendid home life, and enlarges the joys of living.

Young Onions and Kodaks!

They both spring up in the spring tra la! We mention this not because you didn't KNOW it but because you may have FORGOTTEN it! And we have EVERY SIZE film you care to mention and PLENTY of Kodaks, too! Assorted prices!

Prescriptions!

Never forget that we druggists are partners of the DOCTOR. At NO TIME are we in ANY sense competitors. For simple, little ailments, remedies for which most of us know, the drug store is many times all that is needed, but when the trouble is complicated, certainly we want the opportunity to give you the medicine the Doctor PRESCRIBES — fill his PRESCRIPTION, in other words. And we are proud of our work!

Police and Fountain News!

There's no reasen why a Lime Frappe
Can't be taken most every day;
For they cool your throat and calm the mind,
And to your stomach they're very kind.
We've found this true for years and years
In spite of many people's fears;
So you just try one some day soon
And put yourself in perfect tune.

How Much Do You Know About Easter?

Did you know that the Easter celebration in the 10th Century lasted 8 days? That slaves received their freedom at that time? That the poor were feasted in the churches? That up until the 16th Century, sports, dances and farcical exhibitions, in which at times the clergy joined, were the order of Easter Day? That colored eggs are used not only by Christians but by Persians at their Solar New Year (March) and by the Jews at their Feast of the Passover?

Apart from Easter's purely religious significance in this country and the very natural solemnity of the occasion, Americans make the day one where gaily colored NEW raiment, happy new bonnets and (if the weather be propitious), the "Easter Parade" are strongly in evidence.

In other words, we all sorta like to brush off a lot of griefs, troubles, mistakes and other mental dust we've collected and start out again all frizzed up for a NEW set of adventures—in the spring!

And you'll probably be real pleased at some of the things a store like ours can contribue to this jaunt of yours.

John Carnahan

Shorty Says:

So far as I can see, there's no GOOD reason for me to be here on this page at this particular time with this spyglass. The boss expects me to always ring in something about how good his store is but why he got me this magnifying glass to strut around with is applesauce, so far as I can judge. So if it's all right with YOU folks, I'll just not bother you any this week but will try to think up something cute for the boss NEXT week.

Food Sale!

When you pass our store on Sixth Street Saturday glance in at our center window and see if there is not something there that you would be glad to tell the world that your wife made it or tell your husband that you made it. And come early for such goods that are going to be on sale Saturday are liable to move out quickly.

Easter Is Coming!

At no other time in the year is a woman's apparel of LARGER importance than around EASTER. And things like the CORRECT perfume, the proper shade of rouge, and the healthy glisten that our hair preparations give are only a few of the items we have for sale and we almost forgot to say it is just the right time to get one of those dainty DEVILbiss perfumizers.

A Glistening Crown!

Dry, brittly hair ain't nuthin' to write home about! Especially when it's a bit thin on the sides or top. And STIM used a couple of days will put real VIGOR and Beauty in it and we have it on special sale Saturday for 89c.

Kyanize!

These are the easily applied paints and varnishes that you probably have heard of and that your neighbor probably has used. Certainly is surprising how much a little Kyanize can brighten up a home.

Wild, Wooly Wimmen!

They are arming EVERYWHERE! Strange, stirring, wild "yearns" are agitating the bosoms of womenkind and their soft, soulful eyes are taking on the BATTLE GLEAM! Men are taking to cover seeking shelter where they may! Even the children are agitated! For SPRING HOUSECLEANING is upon the face of the earth and, thank goodness, we sure got MOST EVERYTHING HERE in the way of AMMUNITION! Ask any of our clerks about it!

TASTES 15,864 CANS OF CORN

Delay in South Bend, Ind., Trial is Necessary.

SOUTH BEND, Ind.—The case of the United States of America vs 661 cases of twenty-four cans each, of canned corn, trial of which is expected to take up several weeks in the court of Federal Judge Thomas W. Slick, has been postponed to June.

Each can will have a separate trial, the court decided, the charges being that the corn is preserved with saccharine which is in violation of the Pure Food Act.

The delay was made necessary by the work involved in taking samples from each can and having it analyzed. The corn was shipped here by a canning concern in New Hartford, N. Y.

Afghanistan Ruler Takes Advanced Step For Higher Education

KANDAHAR, Afghanistan — A notable step forward in the education of the masses in Afghanistan has been taken by the Amir, Amanullah Khan. Decrees issued by him virtually provide for the compulsory education of Afghans.

He has ordered the Persian language, which is the medium of instruction in the schools here, to be replaced by the language of Afghanistan.

Children are to attend school at an early age, and any parents failing to send their children to school will be fined five rupees.

THE GREAT ATLANTIC & PACIFIC TEA CO.

ROCHESTER, N. Y., March 26.—Brigadier General Thomas Ward, retired, is dead at his home here today at the age of 87. He was the oldest living graduate of West Point and had seen long service in the United States army. Burial will be in Oswego, N. Y.

No more RHEUMATISM

IT'S GONE! That awful agony! Rheumatism can't stand the rich, red blood that S. S. S. helps Nature build.

But rheumatism will bring pain and misery to your joints and muscles just as long as you are without plenty of rich, red blood in your system.

It's the red-blood-cells that S. S. S. helps Nature build that drive out of your system the impurities that cause rheumatism. And until you do build up your blood to where it is pure and rich and red, you simply can't get rid of rheumatism.

And S. S. S. is the thing. Red blood conquers rheumatism. Everybody knows that.

S. S. S. means millions of red-blood-cells—means health all over. No more rheumatism. Nights of rest—days of joy, filled with the happiness of accomplishment — made possible by a body brimful of red blooded life, energy and vitality.

That's what the end of rheumatism means—that's what S. S. S. brings to you. Get S. S. S. from your druggist. The larger bottle is more economical.

Irene Rich Stars In "Compromise," at American Theatre

If you enjoy the dramatic picturization of a realistic and powerful story, then you must not miss "Compromise," starring beautiful Irene Rich which opened yesterday at the American theatre.

Her latest characterization of Joan Trevore finds Miss Rich at her best.

The producers have certainly been most generous in their choice of a supporting cast, which includes Clive Brook, a most plausible hero, and little Pauline Garon, as Joan's selfish half-sister.

Louise Fazenda is funnier than ever—which is real praise—as Hilda, the loyal Swedish maid.

Alan Crosland has retained all the drama of Jay Gelzer's original story, which was adapted to the screen by E. T. Lowe, Jr., with the result that "Compromise" is a thoroughly enjoyable and realistic screen production.

$1,500 NEEDED FOR CHASSIS

Bond Issue Question Will be Submitted to Solicitor.

Unless the Kiwanis club of Lisbon gives its aid toward the raising of a fund of about $1,500 for the purchase of a chassis for a new fire truck, council of Lisbon will probably place the proposition before Solicitor William B. Moore for his opinion whether or not the corporation is in a position to issue bonds for such purposes.

"We have not given up hope in putting the public subscription over," declared Mayor Clark. "The proposition is now being discussed by the Kiwanis club, and as soon as we hear what action has been taken by that body we will then know what further step can be taken. If possible, we may have a bond issue for this purpose, but this question will have to be referred to Solicitor Moore."

Thin Run-Down People Gain Needed Weight

Men and women whose natural strength doesn't equal the demands of everyday life—whose every effort is a drag—should take Coco Cod to build up lagging strength and energy—to add good, healthy weight, to give them a new lease on life and happiness.

Coco Cod is nature's effective tonic and strength-builder, just pure cod liver oil, with the health vitamins from eggs, yeast, spinach and lettuce—flavored with cocoa to make it pleasant to take.

Coco Cod is not merely a temporary stimulant, it is a nutritive system-builder of unequalled effectiveness. Harry S. Orr, Cincinnati, writes: "I was in a run-down condition and took three bottles of Coco Cod, which helped me very much—so much that I have advised friends to take it, and they did so with good results."

Physicians everywhere recommend Coco Cod for convalescents, for nursing or over-taxed mothers, for its wonderful results in the treatment of anemia, malnutrition, or weak, underweight conditions in young or old. Begin today—take Coco Cod for health. All druggists.—Advertisement.

the Veterans' Bureau says 117,000 of those have been rehabilitated.

That does not mean, however, that 117,000 are today working as self-supporting citizens at the occupations for which they were trained. Many are in other occupations, some are back in hospitals, a few have died. Most of them are receiving some amount of compensation pay from the government. Just how many have actually been restored to a complete state of independent self-support is not known. Many have been, annd for them the great experiment has been a wonderful success. Some have found it only a sad disappointment.

The cost of the experiment is difficult to calculate because the government changed its agency for the work in the middle of the task. The federal board for vocational education started it. The task was later given to the United States veterans' bureau. A rough estimate is that $500,000,000 has been spent for veterans' rehabilitation. An equally rough guess is that 10,000 men have been restored to reasonable health and economic indebtedness. On that basis it has cost $5,000 for each human career that has been saved from dependency and restored to self-support.

Probably a close and complete analysis would make the cost higher, but even twice that much spent to turn a young man from a human wreck destined only for hospitals, asylums, and pension rolls, into a self-sufficient citizen, would not be a bad investment. He will produce a good deal more than that value during a useful life, and his restoration form dependency will be a material saving to society, which otherwise would probably have to support him.

Thus despite all wasteful mistakes and all heart-breaks, the vocational rehabilitation experiment has not been wholly a failure. Volumes have been written about the sensational success in some cases, and the pitiful blunders in others. The blind man who became a successful lawyer, the armless man who operates a special typewriter at great speed, the shell-shocked minister who found rest for war-torn nerves as a shoemaker, the East Side New York lad who is a happy, successful poultry farmer—these and many other cases have been recited to show success.

Many Changed Their Objectives.

The futile effort to make doctors out of boys with no primary education, or watch-makers from young men whose brawny arms were designed for black-smithing, is part of the tale of failure. More than half of the men went through training courses changed their objectives after they started. Thousands jumped blindly into courses for auto salesmen because they had never owned an automobile. Hundreds were compelled to start training to be shoemakers because the government had set up a shoe-making school. Later they changed courses to something for which they were fitted by nature and experience.

The training pay rate was $100 per month, and married men received additional allowances. Undoubtedly many men went into training simply because it provided a living for the moment. If they did not take their work seriosly, they had to be weeded out. It was noticeable that when congress increased the married man's allowance by $35 per month there was quite a wave of matrimony around the training schools. But on the whole, the trainees have been sincere, and they have bungled no more than the government bungled in its great welfare experiment.

A real hardship will result for a number of present trainees if their courses terminate as the law now provides. Some men in training to be farmers were encouraged to buy land on the installment plan. They did this hoping their training allowance would enable them to get it cultivated to a profitable basis. Where these men have not got their land cleared, they may lose it when training pay stops.

Some of the men in universities, studying to be lawyers and doctors and the like, have one or two years' work ahead before they can win degrees and start practicing their professions. Congress is being asked to make some extension of time possible for these cases. Otherwise the experiment is about complete.

Perhaps in five years a survey of the economic status of the trainees will actually prove whether or not Uncle Sam reached his object when he undertook to bring up a family of his disabled defenders, and make self-sufficient citizens out of them. Right now he says he has trained 117,000 and found jobs for them, and that most of them are holding down the jobs and making good, and he is working on 12,000 more. It has been his greatest experiment in helping human kind.

Eve's Two Lovers

by EDGAR POE NORRIS

THE STORY UP TO DATE.

EVE MACLURIE, young, beautiful, thrifty, passionately satisfied with life, loved both her employer, JOHN INGATE, 30, president of John Ingate's Sons, Inc., one of the largest firms in Central City, and CLAY WALES, an employe of the Ingate concern. She rejected John to marry Clay because she believed that the latter, weak, irresponsible, fiercely jealous, needed her more. Once they were wed, however, she had her doubts about the wisdom of her choice.

On their honeymoon in Chicago, while enjoying country club guest privileges through the courtesy of John Ingate, they met JOCELYN JOHNSTONE, violet-eyed and mysterious, and her questionable escort, REGGIE WHITE. When John Ingate appeared in Chicago unexpectedly, he met Miss Johnstone through Clay and Eve, and was immediately infatuated with her, it seemed to them.

When the honeymooners returned to Central City, they went to Clay's mother's house with the intention of staying only a few days. Eve had won Clay over to her plan to continue to work as John Ingate's secretary, and her first act, once their baggage was deposited at the Wales' bungalow, was to go down to the plant. She found that Mary Sullivan had taken her place in the office, that John's manner toward her had changed. Heart-broken, she decided to look elsewhere for work, but kept the information from Clay.

Now go on with the story:

THIRTY-ONE.

There was no doubt in Eve's mind then that she would not find work. But as she lay curled up in Clay's arms in the drab room in the Wales bungalow, she had no mind for the sweet nonsense he was declaring; she was distressed at the thought of looking around for work so soon after her marriage. What a morsel for Mary Sullivan! And how could she explain to a curious prospective employer her reason for leaving John Ingate's employ?

She was jarred out of her depressing speculations by Clay's question: "I suppose you will be going over to see your mother soon?"

"Yes. . . .Yes." She looked through him.

Puzzled, Clay waited, watching.

"Yes, I thought we could drop in there on our way to look for rooms."

"Why—I thought you'd want to go alone."

"No—not necessarily." Her mind was not yet wholly upon what they were discussing.

Clay was disturbed by that expression in her eyes. "What's the matter, honey?"

"Nothing, dear, nothing." She got up from his knees. "Let's go."

Mrs. Wales hurried int othe hall as they descended the stairs. "I want you two to have supper here tonight—dinner, I mean. Mr. Wales, you know—."

Clay glanced at Eve questioningly.

"That will be very nice, Mrs. Wales. Only don't go to very much trouble. And I'll be in later, if there is anything I can do—?"

"No, I'll manage." She directed herself to Clay as he went on toward the door, with a sort of triumphant tone, "We'll eat in the dining room." He smiled back at her.

They went downtown on a street car. "Be nice when we have a Ford coupe," Clay observed.

"Yes." Eve did not want to repeat then her opposition to expenditure of any part of their restricted income upon an automobile. She was thinking of other things.

Mrs. MacLurie was having her afternoon nap when the newlyweds arrived. Eve's brother, Bruce, young, impetuous, looked Clay over challengingly as he admitted them. Well, Sis, you sure pulled a surprise."

Eve kissed him, and put Bruce's hand into Clay's. "I'm sorry you weren't here to attend our wedding, Bruce."

"What was the all-fired rush?" her brother asked.

Eve colored slightly, remembering her own apprehension over how the hurry attending her marriage would be interpreted.

"Oh, just so much in love that we couldn't wait." She patted his cheek affectionately. "Where is mother?"

"Having her beauty sleep."

"I hate to disturb her."

"Don't then," said Bruce, indifferently falling into a chair. It was plain he did not like Clay Wales.

His sister regarded him with annoyance. Was Bruce trying to be nasty, or was he just reflecting her mother's attitude? Without replying she left the men alone and went upstairs.

"Well, now that you're married, how do you like it?" Bruce asked, meeting Clay's eyes in such a way that the latter dropped his glance.

"Huh. We haven't got that far yet; we're still on our honeymoon."

"Huh!" Bruce lapsed into silence. He both loved and hated his sister—they had been inseparable playmates and relentless enemies since childhood—and he had been furious when he came home from a trip (he was a traveling salesman) to find that Eve had married "that egg."

This period was painful to Clay. He could not help realizing that with at least one member of the MacLurie family, and possibly all but one, he was not very popular. He fumbled with his hands and got out his cigarettes. But he dared not light one. He had long since been made familiar with Mrs. MacLurie's aversion to the odor of tobacco smoke.

Eve came back down the stairs in 10 or 15 minutes, wearing an expression that made Clay uncomfortable. He was glad to escape into the open air with her. "How is everything?"

"Mother isn't feeling very well. Poor dear is just about worn out. Dad and Bruce make a world of work for her, and she isn't very strong. And now there's no one to help her."

"I'm so sorry," Clay felt called on to say.

Eve took two of his fingers in her warm, silky paw and they set forth in search of that little love nest which is the dream of all newly married couples.

They started at a not very pretentious apartment building in Grand avenue. They had decided not to apply through an agency yet, since Eve had the idea they might get a place cheaper by direct bargaining, inasmuch as the landlord would be saved an agency commission.

"Uh hundred and fifty dollars if you haven't no children," the janitor at this Grand avenue place announced.

Eve looked around the suite disheartened. One hundred and fifty dollars a month for three rooms, kitchenette and bath! What might they expect to get and where would they have to go to get a place to live within their means?

Their next several calls were no more encouraging. Grand avenue and Walnut street apartment districts evidently were not for them.

"Such outrageous prices," Eve murmured.

"We could take that last place. Only a hundred dollars and pretty nice."

"But, dear," she replied, irritated by his lack of foresight, "don't you know we can't spend everything for rent?"

She suddenly became weary of this search. It had to go on, and, she now realized more than ever, she must find work.
